CLASS DAY POEM.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

To the Class of Seventy-Nine:

This Report is of the same general nature as that issued in 1882. Each man has been called upon to give an account of his doings during the last three years, and the answers received are printed here. So far as possible each man is made to speak in his own words. The accounts are of course much abridged, and this abridgment has proved a matter of considerable difficulty. In some cases I have offended by printing too little, in others I fear the scissors have not been used with sufficient freedom. A proof has been sent to each man, as before, and the type held eight days for a response.

Following the custom of the more recent Class Reports, the list of the Class proper is made to include the names only of those who have received the degree of A. B. as of 1879. This seems hard in some cases, but it is undoubtedly the proper way. I have thought it interesting to add to the names of the Class the college degrees received other than that of Harvard A. B., as in the College Quinquennial.

Tables showing the marriages, births and deaths will be found on pp. 92–95. Forty-nine of the Class have married in the six years, or a trifle over twenty-five per cent. The babies number thirty-three. The table on page 104 shows in an interesting way the total receipts to date, by years, from each source, and the expenditures in similar fashion. The Class Directory, on pp. 98–101, shows what members of the Class may be found in each city and State.

The frontispiece to the Report represents the John Harvard statue, by Daniel C. French, of Concord, Mass., presented to the college last fall by Samuel Bridgman, of Cambridge. It stands in the delta, near Memorial Hall. The illustration is too small to do justice to the handsome, earnest, scholarly face of the original. The face is, of course, ideal. Little is known of Harvard save that he died at about the age of 27.

I have been unable to secure for this Report an account of the progress of the University, such as we had from Taussig in 1882. The principal changes have been in the erection and use of the new Law School, and the Jefferson Physical Laboratory, on Holmes' Field, and of the Medical School building on Boylston street, in Boston. There is another horse-car line between Cambridge and Boston, and the Cambridge street bridge is now bright with electric lights. The old gymnasium serves as the college carpenter shop, while the old law-school building is the headquarters of the Co-operative Society.

In the spring of 1884 it was decided by the class committee not to have the Second Triennial Dinner and Report together, in 1885, but to separate them and have a Quinquennial Dinner in 1884. The Dinner was held at the Brunswick, in Boston, Tuesday evening, June 24, 1884, 88 members of the Class being present. It is proposed to now have Dinners twice in every five years. As the Class Reports will hereafter be issued once in every five years only (concurrently with the University Quinquennial), this will never leave a gap of more than one year without either a Dinner or a Report. The plan proposed is as follows:

1884.—Quinquennial Dinner.
1885.—Third Report.
1886.————————
1887.—Dinner.
1888.————————
1889.—Decennial Dinner.
1890.—Fourth Report.
1891.————————
1892.—Dinner.
Etc.

Next year is the 250th anniversary of the foundation of the college, and as many of the Class will want to go on then, the class committee will probably take up on Commencement Day the question of having a Dinner in 1886 instead of in 1887.

At Commencement, 1884, a resolution was passed authorizing the class committee and class secretary to add two more men to the class committee, one from Boston, and one from New York. This was done, inasmuch as but one of our then class committee was located east of Colorado. The two new men selected were Burr and Wright.

In the fall of 1884 all the Class Lives were sent to the college library for safe keeping. This is a much better place for them, they being secure from fire. Access to them is allowed only to those having special permission.

It seems well to call attention to the table of unpaid subscriptions, on page 105. There seems to be an impression that we have plenty of money. This is not the case. We are very short of ready money, and have not now sufficient uninvested funds to pay the expenses of this year. I must ask all who can to pay their subscriptions at once. Those who are more than one year behindhand may, if preferred, pay one instalment now, and one each succeeding Commencement, until complete. From time to time various members of the Class have made special subscriptions to help along our funds. These are always most welcome.

I am conscious that this Report shows many signs of haste, and regret that it has come at a time when I am much pressed with other work. I shall be glad to be advised of any mistakes or omissions.

Very sincerely,

FRANCIS ALMY,

Class Day, June 19, 1885. Class Secretary.

RECORD OF THE CLASS.

1882—1885.

ALBERT CLINTON ALDRICH.

(April 11.)—"The last report leaves me a student of medicine at Boston, Harvard Medical School. To continue—I remained at the school until March 1, 1883, when I left to take up my residence at the Rhode Island Hospital, in Providence, in which institution I had obtained the appointment of third Interne or Junior House Officer. There I combined my studies with practical work, and in June, 1883, I took my final examinations and received the degree M. D. My residence at the Hospital continued until July 1, 1884, during which time I served successively as Medical and Surgical House Officer. After the completion of my Hospital training the all-absorbing question was, Where shall I locate? This required consideration. I spent the time from July to November following in traveling about in New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts. Visited the White Mountains and had a delightful vacation. November 18th found me in St. Johnsbury, Vt., in which town I opened an office about Christmas time. Nailed up my shingle on Xmas Eve to be exact. After three months' experience I find no reason to change the favorable opinion which I had previously formed concerning the town. I am the only young physician here. I am almost positive that one year hence I shall have obtained a sufficient amount of practice to enable me to chronicle financial success at least."

Is a member of the Boylston Medical Society, and the White Mountain Medical Society.

HORACE CHAPIN ALGER.

April 1, 1884, became a member of the firm of S. F. Cass & Co., doing a general merchandise business at Sumner, Ia. Sold out in August, 1884, and in November went to Miles City, Montana, where, on January 25, 1885, he went into the cattle business with the Essex Cattle Co., Miles City.

"Joined the Masons in the spring of 1882, at Sumner, Ia.; was elected W. M., April, 1884, after holding other positions in the lodge. In the fall of 1882, was elected one of the Justices of Peace in and for Bremer county, Iowa. Was a member of the Democratic County Central Committee for three years."

FRANCIS ALMY.

(June 1.) — Immediately upon leaving Cambridge, in June, 1880, I entered the Chicago office of the lake Anchor Line. There I remained until the spring of 1883, when I shipped from Buffalo as purser on one of the company's boats, the propeller "Japan," running between Buffalo and Duluth. I spent the whole summer, from May 10 to November 28, on the boat, getting much practical knowledge, and having some curious experiences. Upon leaving the boat I spent two months at my home, New Bedford, Mass., and then, on the first of February, 1884, I entered the general offices of the Anchor Line, at Philadelphia. Here I stayed for two months, in the Auditor's department. March 23, 1884, I came to Buffalo, where I have a position in the office of the Western Manager of the Anchor Line. My brother (1880) and I have rented and furnished a small house on Delaware avenue, and since the first of May, 1885, we have been keeping house here successfully and pleasantly.

Am a member of the Chicago, Philadelphia and Buffalo Harvard Clubs, the Buffalo Civil Service Reform Association, and of the American Society for Psychical Research. Also, am Secretary of the Lake Carriers' Association, which has its headquarters at Buffalo, N. Y.

HARLAN PAGE AMEN.

(May 3.)—"Since our last report my occupation has continued to be that of a teacher here at Riverview, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. My department is that of Latin, Greek, and English literature. I greatly enjoy my work, and could be equally happy at nothing else.

"In the spring of 1883, I was asked to take a one-third interest in the proprietorship and management of the school, and gladly accepted the proposition, the firm name becoming Bisbee, Son & Amen. In February of the present year we met with a great loss in the death of the founder and head of the Academy, Otis Bisbee, Esq., an educator of wonderful energy and ability. The son of Mr. Bisbee and myself are now conducting the school, and hope to merit a continuance of the patronage heretofore so generously accorded to us.

"I have one child, a daughter, Margaret Rawson Amen, born to us March 23, 1884."

CLEMENT WALKER ANDREWS.

(March 22.)—"Truly on reviewing the past three years I am somewhat surprised to see how uneventful they have been to me, personally. The one great change has been that of employment. You know I left Carter, Dinsmore & Co., in September, 1883, to accept the position of assistant in organic chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Last fall I was made instructor in the same branch, a position I may hold for some time. I am very well pleased with it, as the work is interesting and not largely routine, the hours very fair, and the vacations long."

Is a member of the German Chemical Society, and of the Society of Arts of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

FRANCIS WAYLAND ANTHONY.

(April 9.)—"I have been for the last three years Principal of the High School at Bradford, Mass., coming here at an increased salary over that I had in Weston, and having said salary raised every year so far.

"I now intend to study medicine—in fact have begun to do so.

"I am director of a choir of twenty-five voices, having developed my powers in this direction by proper study and training. Am busy every moment, and like my location."

Is a member of the High School Principals' Association of Eastern Massachusetts, chairman of Board of Control of Bradford

Farmers' Club and Mechanics' Institute, and Secretary and Treasurer of the Bradford Choral Union. Had an account of the Bradford High School Library in the State Report of the Board of Education for 1884. Has published a rhythmical account of "A Schoolmaster in the Woods."

(June 1.)—"Have resigned my position in Bradford, and expect to enter the Harvard Medical School in the fall."

HARRISON OTIS APTHORP.

(February 19.)—"I was at Southboro' (St. Mark's School) three years after taking my A. M., and then studied at Harvard a year more with Goodwin, Allen, Dyer, Greenough and White. I am now Sub Master in the Roxbury Latin School."

EDWARD HERBERT ATHERTON.

(May 29.)—Has for the past year been connected with the "Institute of Professors" in Paris, as instructor in English. He sails for America on the City of Rome, June 17.

WILLIAM RUSSELL AUSTIN.

(February 25.)—September 13, 1883, left Boston for Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, where he is practising law with Whiting, '77, under the firm name of Whiting & Austin.

GEORGE DAVID AYERS.

(May 28.)—Is at Malden, Mass., and practising law in Boston. Was married January 7, 1885, at Malden, to Charlotte Elizabeth Carder, daughter of Rev. James Dixon Carder and Charlotte Pond (Carder). Belongs to the Massachussetts Reform Club, and is on the Executive Committee of the Malden Republican and Independent Club. Has written various newspaper articles on matters connected with Civil Service Reform, and mugwump politics. Did a little stumping for the Independents in Massachusetts during the last campaign.

About the middle of February formed a partnership with Hodges, '79. Office, 56 Sears Building.

CHARLES WILLIAM BACON.

(February 4.)—Is practising law in Natick, Mass. Has published various law articles in different papers. In December, 1882, made a three months trip to New Mexico. Is a member of the Papyrus Club, and the Middlesex Club, both of Boston.

HENRY BAILY.

(February 4.)—Is still at the Chauncy Hall School, Boston. Has advanced to the head of the Classical Department.

PETER TOWNSEND BARLOW.

(February 4.)—"I have but little to tell as to my doings during the last three years. I have been constantly here in the office of Shipman, Barlow, Larocque & Choate, Attorneys at Law, New York. Two journeys only have fallen to my lot—a month's shooting in Wisconsin in 1882, and last year, after a siege of typhoid fever, two months in Canada, where I was fortunate enough to join some important business with the pleasures of a Canadian winter. I have been connected with several new corporations of late, as attorney and secretary, and find this work very pleasant."

Is a member of the University Club, Knickerbocker Club, Harvard Club, Racquet Club and South Side Club.

WALDRON BATES.

(March 27.)—Is practising law in Boston, at 5 Pemberton Square. Is a member of the "Lone-Jack Whist Club," and of the American Society for Psychical Research. Has contributed the following articles to The American Angler:

April 15, 1882.—"The Fly and the Worm."
May 27, 1882.—"A Merciful Man is Merciful to His Beast."
July 1, 1882.—"A Fly-Book."
August 5, 1882.—"A Fascinating Landing Net."
October 28, 1882.—"Fog on the Water."
November 4, 1882.—"A Very Sombre Pair of Trout."
November 20, 1882.—"Spawning Trout.—A Query."
April 14, 1883.—"On Top or Under?"

Also an article in Forest and Stream in 1880 or 1881, entitled, "Is Sweepstake Shooting Gambling?"

EDMUND LINCOLN BAYLIES.

(May 8.)—"It had long been my wish to make a trip around the world; and in June, 1882, having in the previous month been admitted to the Bar in New York City, and having just secured my degree of LL.B. at the Harvard Law School, everything favored the execution of my plans. The preparations for my departure made me miss our first Triennial Dinner; but, at last, having obtained all the suggestions and advice that I could procure from those who had preceded me, and being armed with a goodly supply of letters of introduction, I left New York on June 30. Unfortunately, I could not find any congenial spirit to accompany me, and I was obliged to start off quite alone.

"My course lay westward, and Chicago, Denver, Leadville, Pike's Peak, Salt Lake City, Virginia City and its famous silver mines, Lake Tahoe, San Francisco, the Yosemite Valley, the Big Trees, etc., etc., were visited in turn. On the first of August I found myself sailing through the Golden Gates out on to the Pacific.

"Japan, to me the most fascinating country in the world, was my next stopping place. I saw not only the seaport towns, but spent a number of weeks traveling through the interior of the country, living quite in Japanese style, and it was no easy task to decide to bid adieu to this interesting people.

"Peking was my next objective point. To go to China and not to visit Peking, would be like going to Italy and neglecting Rome; and yet not more than one traveler out of every hundred that visit the East ever reaches Peking. Then, too, there is the trip from Peking up to the Great Wall of China, which is deeply interesting. In going southward from Peking I narrowly escaped an enforced stay in Northern China; for, two days after I sailed from Tientsin, the Peiho river was frozen up, and navigation was thus suspended for four months.

"Proceeding down the China coast, I came in turn to Shanghai, Hong-Kong, Canton and Macao, and on New Year's Day of the year 1883, I awoke to find my steamer coming up to her wharf in the port of Singapore. To cross 'the line' and visit the beautiful tropical island of Java, occupied my next month; and a merry trip we had of it, driving from one end of the island to the other, a congenial party of six, in an old-fashioned traveling carriage, which we bought for the trip, and then left in the hands of a 'notary' for sale. It is needless to add that the proceeds of this sale were never forthcoming.

"About the middle of February I reached Ceylon, whence it is but a short sail to the southern coast of India. After visiting the great Temples of Southern India, I went by sea from Madras to Calcutta, and then journeyed slowly westward towards Bombay. I name but a few of the cities I passed through, each possessing its peculiar charm, each replete with interest: Benares, Cawnpore, Lucknow, Agra, Delhi, Umritsur the sacred city of the Sikhs, Lahore and Jeypore. I must not forget to mention the trip to Darjeeling, whence looking across the 'foot-hills' of Nipal you see the majestic range of the Himalayas towering 28,000 feet into the heavens, while the snow-clad peak of Everest, with its 29,000 feet, shows itself, though more than one hundred miles distant. No sight so impresses one with the grandeur of nature as this view of the vast Himalaya chain, beside which the Swiss Alps are but as pigmies. I must also mention the wonderful Cave Temples, which are found near Bombay, especially those of Elephanta, Elura and Ajanta, where colonies of ascetics or monks of the various Hindu religious creeds once made their home, and carried on their worship.

"It was almost the last day of April when I sailed from Bombay, and I could not help feeling deep regret that the best part of my trip now lay behind me.

"Of course it was hot going up the Red Sea, but the P. & O. steamers are roomy and comfortable, and in ten days I was landed at Suez. It was too late to go up the Nile, but I went to Cairo, and saw the Pyramids, and going on to Alexandria took a steamer for Joppa. After spending a number of days in Jerusalem, and going down to the Dead Sea, I joined myself to two Roman Catholic priests to make the overland journey through Palestine from Jerusalem to Damascus.

"Leaving Damascus, I passed a few pleasant days among the hills of the Lebanon, and reaching Beirût took a steamer thence to Smyrna, having first, however, seen the famous ruins of Baalbek. In comparison with these, the ruins of Ephesus, which are visited from Smyrna, sink into insignificance. An Egyptian steamer now carried me onward, and traversing the classic Hellespont, we anchored at sunrise one morning in the Golden Horn, and Constantinople, with its many minarets, lay before us.

"But I have now reached ground comparatively well known, and suffice it to say, that after spending a few weeks in and about Constantinople, I left for Athens. Thence crossing the isthmus, I sailed through the Gulf of Corinth, and passing a day or two at Corfu reached Brindisi. Naples, Rome, Florence, Venice, Milan and the Italian lakes were left behind in turn, all too quickly, and almost before I could realize it, I was pacing a steamer's deck, while the coast line of Ireland was fading rapidly away. I reached New York September 18, having been absent about fifteen months.

"To one who is fond of travel, and who is able to spare the time, there is no trip that offers so many charms as the one I have just described. I have written about it rather at length, but I thought it might perhaps be seen by some classmate who is likewise inclined to travel, and should he follow my course and go, I feel sure that he would ever after be grateful to me for helping him to decide to undertake the journey.

"Shortly after my return I entered the office of Scudder & Carter, lawyers, 66 Wall street, in this city, as a clerk, and there I have been ever since, and there, I suppose, I shall remain for a year longer. You will scarcely expect me to describe the daily life of a clerk in a law office! There has been no break in the routine, except for a month last summer, when I joined a party of friends and spent several weeks in camp on the Nepigon river. This river, in the extreme western part of the Province of Ontario, empties into Lake Superior from the north, and is famous for the size and beauty of the brook trout which frequent its waters. They rival the famous Rangely lake trout, but are more gamey. The trout we caught averaged two and a quarter pounds, and we caught a number weighing four and four and a half pounds."

SAMUEL CROCKER BENNETT.

(February 6.)—Was admitted to the Suffolk Bar, January 23, 1884. Is practising in Boston, with an office in the Hemenway Building, 10 Tremont street. Has an office with Cushing. Went abroad for three months in 1883. Is a member of the Puritan Club, and the Boston Art Club. Is assistant dean of the Boston University Law School. Is engaged.

AMOS BINNEY.

(February 12.)—"At the time of issuing our last Report I was in Providence, R. I., with the Silver Spring Bleaching and Dyeing Co. The longer I stayed there the more discontented I became, and towards the close of 1882 began to look for a situation elsewhere.

"The summer of 1883 I spent in Boston working in a commercial laboratory, doing what extra work was required, and doing what odd chemical jobs I could run across. In August I engaged with my present employer (H. D. Dupee,—Walpole Dye and Chemical Works), and began work here September 1, 1883. Our works manufacture various chemicals, mordants and dyes, for either silk, wool or cotton—quite a strong hold being colors for calico-printers.

"My work is entirely in the laboratory, testing our products and experimenting on new articles. Our superintendent is an English chemist, and he and I constitute the chemical faculty of the establishment. A special laboratory for testing printing colors has been fitted up according to my own ideas, and there I reign supreme—our general laboratory being used in common by the superintendent and myself. I like my work, and the persons I am associated with, and am well satisfied pecuniarily — my 'proprietor' (Mr. Dupee), being the squarest man I ever fell in with."

Was married May 5, 1885, in Boston, by Rev. Geo. W. Briggs, D. D., to Julia, youngest daughter of Phineas A. and Rebecca (Jackson) Stone, Boston.

GEORGE ASHTON BLACK.

(March 10.)—Taught in New York from September, 1882, to October, 1884. In November, 1884, went to Menton, France, via London and Paris. Was there in March, and at the time of writing expected to spend April and May in Italy, and return to New York in June. Was married August 18, 1883, in New York, to Mrs. Emma L. Panton, daughter of Dr. Joshua H. and Emeline J. Thompson, of New York. Is a member of the Torrey Botanical Club, and one of the Board of Directors and Chairman of the Library Committee of the Young Men's Union.

CHARLES HIRAM BLOOD.

(March 9.)—Is practising law in Boston, at 8 Congress street, as a member of the firm of Blood & Stevens. Lives at Fitchburg. Is a member of the Windsor Club of Fitchburg (social) and of the New Bedford Yacht Club.

ALLYN HANABERGH BOWEN.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

JOHN TEMPLETON BOWEN.

(May 26.)—Has not replied to circulars. After being in the Massachusetts Hospital for six months he went abroad in February, 1884, staying principally in Berlin and Munich; he came back last August; has been doing some medical work in Boston, principally in the way of graduate courses at the school, and last February went out to Vienna, where he is now.

ALBERT SIMON BRANDEIS.

(May 25.)—Is practising law in Louisville, Ky. For six months past has been assistant to the Corporation Council of the City.

CHARLES OSMYN BREWSTER.

(April 8.)—Is practising law in New York, at 346 Broadway. Went to Europe in 1882, sailing June 14, and getting back September 19.

FRANK BREWSTER.

(February 12.)—Is practising law in Boston. Was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in June, 1883.

FREDERIC MELANCTHON BRIGGS.

Is studying medicine in Vienna. Writes as follows: (February 22.) "Upon finishing the three years' course in the Medical School, received an appointment as House Officer of the Massachusetts General Hospital, and remained there about a year and a half, getting through in February, 1884. In February and March made a trip to Porto Rico, and in April left for Europe to study medicine, and have been there since. Date of return to America as yet undecided." Hopes to go home this summer or early in the autumn. Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society.

ARTHUR ANDERSON BROOKS.

(February 8.)—"To take up the thread of my story where the report of 1882 left it,—in the Harvard Divinity School,—I have to record the continuance of my preparation for the ministry there until my graduation in 1884. My life in the school was a most interesting and delightful one to me—though without events of special importance to the world at large or even to that very considerable part of it, the Class of '79. I preached my first sermon in Brooklyn, Conn., in an old meeting-house dating from ante-Revolutionary times. I think I may venture to say that it was a failure. In the summer of 1883, I preached during the months of July and August at the little village of Somesville on the Island of Mt.

Desert. Since that time I have preached occasionally in many Unitarian pulpits in New England. At Commencement, 1884, I graduated from the Divinity School, with the degrees of B. D. and A. M., and delivered a theological dissertation on 'The Religion of the Present.' During the three months following I remained at home in Worcester recruiting my health. In October I began in earnest the trying career of a 'candidate.' I preached in Gloucester, Yonkers and Greenfield. I received a call to Yonkers in November; and a call from Greenfield in December, which latter I accepted. I was ordained and installed over the Third Congregational Society in Greenfield, on January 21, 1883, as successor to Dr. J. F. Moors. So here I am at present, trying to find my way into the hearts of some two hundred families of such people as you would expect to find in a thriving New England country town."

Belongs to the Browning Club, of Greenfield, and the Franklin Evangelical Association. Life member of the American Unitarian Association.

ARTHUR CLARENCE BROWN.

(May 26.)—Is practising law in New York, alone, at 56 Wall street.

HOWARD KINMONTH BROWN.

(May 5.)—Is practising law in Boston, at 47 Devonshire street. Admitted to the Bar July 10, 1883.

CHARLES CULP BURLINGHAM.

(April 7.)—September 15, 1881, was admitted to the New York Bar. Is practising in the office of Jas. K. Hill, Wing & Shoudy, 45–49 William street, New York. Was married September 29, 1883, in New York, to Louisa Weed Lawrence, daughter of DeWitt C. and Adeline Hoe Lawrence, of New York. Has one child, Charles Burlingham, born in New York, June 8, 1884. Is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and of the New York Harvard Club.

ISAAC TUCKER BURR.

(March 25.)—Remained in the firm of Putnam, Burr & Co., Boston, until March 1, 1885, when the firm was dissolved, and he became a partner in the new firm of Parkinson & Burr, bankers and brokers, 35 Congress street. Was married October 12, 1882, at Jamaica Plain, to Alice McClure Peters, daughter of Francis A. and Mary E. Peters. Has one son, Isaac Tucker Burr 3d, born in Boston, March 22, 1885. Made a trip through Mexico and California in the spring of 1883. Is one of the four vice-presidents of the Puritan Club, Boston.

GEORGE HENRY BURRILL.

(April 8.)—"I have but little to write concerning the last three years of my life. The event of most importance has been the taking up of that work in which I hope to spend the rest of my days. With the spring of 1884 my school-days ended. I graduated then from the Union Theological Seminary, having been chosen Secretary of my class, and on the eleventh of June I was ordained to the ministry in the church at my home in Wellesley, Mass. I began work here at New Lebanon, N. Y., on the sixth of July. The church which I am supplying belongs to the Congregational denomination, and has about 130 members. It is a good field to begin in, and I find enough to do to keep me busy and happy."

MIDDLETON SHOOLBRED BURRILL.

(May 6.)—Is practising law in New York as a member of the firm of Burrill, Zabriskie & Burrill. Is a Governor of the Rockaway Club, and a member of the Knickerbocker, Meadowbrook and Harvard Clubs, the Association of the Bar, etc.

HARRY BUTLER.

(February 19.)—"At the time of our first report I had recently entered the First National Bank of Portland, Me., where I remained over two years. During this period the Portland Trust Company was chartered, and at the election of officers in the fall of 1884 I had the pleasure of being selected as Secretary.

"I entered upon my duties immediately, preparatory to opening for business, which we did in a few weeks; and at the present date are under good headway with every prospect of success. My duties correspond to those of a bank cashier."

Is a member of the Portland Yacht Club, and the Harvard Club of Maine. Has written a few financial articles in newspapers and magazines.

*WARREN CUSHING CADWELL,

Born October 11, 1858, at New Bedford, Mass.; died December 14, 1881, at New York, N. Y.

See Report II., pp. 48–50.

ARTHUR ASTOR CAREY.

(May 15.)—Is living in Cambridge, pursuing his artistic studies.

WALTER CARY.

(May 21.)—"After receiving a Harvard A. M. degree in 1880, I spent about two years in Colorado, most of which time I was engaged in newspaper work. In May, 1884, I accepted a position as reporter on the Buffalo Morning Courier, and the following October I became a member of the editorial staff."

Is a member of the Thursday Club (a local literary society), the Buffalo Club, and a director of the Buffalo Press Club.

WILLIAM BELTRAN DE LAS CASAS.

(February 5.)—"My life has not been very eventful in the past three years. I continued at the Law School, living at home in Malden, and going and coming each day. I had real estate, and was building and selling in this, which being undivided had first to be laid out and streets built. My law studies and this work have kept me busy. My otherwise leisure time has been filled by my work with the Civil Service Reform movement, as Secretary of the Malden Association, and member of the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts League, and of the General Committee of the National League, at whose conventions at Newport I have each year been present. My nearest approach to writing a pamphlet was in being appointed on a committee to prepare a historical resumé of the Civil Service movement, which we concluded was inexpedient and so reported. Of course I was active against Butler for Governor in 1883 and 1884. I was an active mugwump, being Secretary of the Malden Association, and made some speeches, particularly at Amesbury November 2, and at Newburyport November 4. Well, we won, and then I helped paint this and other towns red. In June I had taken my LL.B. at Harvard, and now I turned my attention to Bar Examinations. I passed, December 20. My health had troubled me all the year past, so as soon as possible, January 6, I went south to Montgomery, Ala., where I remained with great enjoyment, going also to New Orleans to the Exposition, repeating a trip of the previous year. I returned and began work in the office of Robert D. Smith, 13 Exchange street, room 17, the 2d of February. I went to Minneapolis in 1883, stopping all along the route. I have been junior warden of St. Paul's Church, Malden, for a year and a half; have been in various ways connected with public movements in Malden; writing an occasional short communication, or making an argument; plenty of work but no pay—yet. I am not married or engaged, though I have been to Mt. Desert each of the three summers past."

WILLIAM WARREN CASE.

(May 11.)—"After leaving the Cambridge Law School at the end of my second year, in June, 1883, I went in August to St. Paul, Minn., where I was admitted to the bar in October of the same year. I was a member of the Minnesota Boat Club, Minnesota Harvard Club and various other local associations. I opened an office there, and remained until December, 1884, when I removed to Chicago, where I am now practising.

HERMAN CHAPIN.

(April 8.)—April 1, 1885, left the Massachusetts National Bank, Boston, and started for himself in the note brokerage business, 27 Congress street, Boston.

JOHN MAITLAND BREWER CHURCHILL.

(May 8.)—"After returning from Colorado in 1882, I became very ill again and was led to consult a New York physician. In consequence of this I have lived in and about New York a good deal during the last three years. In the spring of 1883 I made two trips south, to Old Point Comfort and Baltimore. In October, after a summer of out-of-door life at home, I returned to the Harvard Law School, with the intention of completing the course there by doing two years' work in one. In December I joined the First Corps of Cadets, Massachusetts Militia. I am a member of the Saturday Evening Club, a social and dramatic club of Cambridge, and of the Puritan Club of Boston. Before the college year was half over, my temporary allowance of health and strength began to be exhausted, and I was finally obliged to content myself with taking the May examinations for the Bar and one year's work at the Law School. Was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in Boston July 8, 1884. The summer of 1884, I spent at Nantucket. In November I entered the office of my father and brother in Boston; but—I am now again in New York."

ROBERT PARKER CLAPP.

(May 11.)—"The past three years of my life contain but very little that can be of interest to the class. I graduated from the Harvard Law School in June, 1882. From the middle of July following until the first of January, 1883, I was employed in the office of the General Solicitor of the New York & New England Railroad Company, in Boston. In December, 1882, I passed the Suffolk Bar examination, and was admitted to practice in February, 1883, being one of a large group of '79 men who then swore that they would 'delay no man for lucre,' and otherwise conduct themselves as honorable and discreet attorneys. In the following April I formed a connection with this office (Wadleigh & Fish, 40 Water street, Boston) and have been in practice here since. I taught in the Boston Evening High School in the winters 1882-3 and 1883-4, but latterly my energies have been directed almost entirely to the practice of my profession. A considerable experience as a reporter, acquired contemporaneously with my course at the Law School, gave me a taste for newspaper work, which I have since indulged, more or less. A few articles that I have written during the past year have been printed in the Boston Advertiser, and one of some length upon a legal subject appeared in the November (1884) number of the American Law Register. I am now one of the Board of Editors of the Civil Service Record, the paper published monthly under the joint auspices of the Boston and Cambridge Civil Service Reform Associations. I was actively interested in the national campaign last fall, serving upon the Cambridge Mugwump City Committee, and taking the stump for two or three addresses just before the election."

JOSEPH PETTEE COBB.

(February 15.)—"I remained with Dr. J. E. Gilman, Chicago, until near the close of 1882, when I resumed my college work at the Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago. In March, 1883, I received my diploma, and together with it the prize for the best general average on the work of the course, including examinations. Also, the prize for the best report of the gynecological clinic. Our class numbered 133, of whom about one-third had the degree of B. S. or A. B.

"In May I opened an office on the South Side, where I am still located, 207 Thirty-first street. Fortune has bestowed her favors sparingly, yet has given sufficient encouragement to induce me to stick. I think I can safely say I am settled. In professional language, my prospects are excellent. I have been placed in charge of the clinic for the children at the Hahnemann Hospital to relieve a professor incapacitated by reason of sickness. The appointment will probably lead to something permanent.

February 1, 1885, I received an appointment for the ensuing year, as consulting physician to the Home of the Friendless, an institution for the care of women and children who are so unfortunate as to be without homes. These, together with my private business, keep me comfortably busy.

"Last summer I took a trip west with a patient. Hon. B. C. Cook, attorney of the Northwestern R. R., was of the party, and furnished his private car for our trip. We were gone nearly a month, and made many stops, indulging in fishing and shooting wherever opportunity offered. With this exception I have applied myself very closely to business, and have had little to break into the every day duties."

Was married September 18, 1882, at Milwaukee, Wis., to Edith Helen Persons, daughter of Edmond R. and Helen M. Persons. Has one son, Edmond Persons Cobb, born August 2, 1883, in Chicago. Is a member of the Fourth Ward Republican Club, Chicago, the Illinois State Medical Society, the Clinical Society of Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital of Chicago, the Alumni Association of same (Treasurer), the Royal Arcanum (Vice-Regent of Ringgold Council), and the American Legion of Honor (Vice-Commander of Calumet Council). Has published the following articles:

"The Diagnosis of the Position and Sex of the Fœtus in Utero, by Auscultation."—The Clinique, September, 1883.

"Meningitis following Scarlatina."—The Clinique, February, 1884.

"The Therapeutics of Asiatic Cholera."—The Clinique, October, 1884.

WILLIAM MERRITT CONANT.

(May 12.)—"In the spring of 1882 I obtained the position of House Officer to the Boston Lying-in Hospital, and served the regular four months. That fall I took the fourth year at the Harvard Medical School. In February, 1883, I was appointed House Pupil at the Massachusetts General Hospital, and spent eighteen months. It was a most delightful service, made even more so by the fact that there were several '79 men with me.

"All this last winter I have been at the Harvard Medical School as an assistant in anatomy, under Dr. Maurice Richardson, Demonstrator.

"This spring I purchased a house, and trust I am settled for many years to come."

Was married November 12, 1884, in Boston, to Mary Andrews Bennett, daughter of Edmund Hatch and Sally Crocker Bennett, of Boston. Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and of the Boston Art Club.

GEORGE FREDERICK COOK.

(March 2.)—At the time of our last report was studying law at Leipzig. February 22, 1883, was married at Dresden to Bertha Kummer, daughter of Julius and Bertha Kummer of St. Petersburg. Returned from Germany in June, 1884. Entered the Minnesota Bar, May 31, 1884, and began practising law August 8, at Breckenridge, Wilkin county, Minnesota, under the firm name of Cook & Gunn. Is editor of the Wilkin County Gazette.

JOHN TEMPLEMAN COOLIDGE.

(March 15.)—"I am still in Paris studying under the same master. I have another little girl, two years old. I 'exposed' in the Paris Salon last year. I return in May to settle in Boston."

Is a member of the Ramblers' Club of Paris, an artistic and literary dining club.

WILLIAM WILLIAMSON COOLIDGE.

(March 1.)—"Since our last Triennial Report I have been engaged in the worsted yarn business with Hall & Co., and the Nonantum Worsted Co. until June of the present year, when I formed a copartnership with Fred Guild of Canton, for the transaction of a general commission business in worsted, woolen and cotton yarns, etc., with office at 40 Bedford street, Boston.

"I was married November 13, 1883, to Helen Whittington Mills of Boston, and since my marriage have resided at the Hotel Oxford in Boston."

GEORGE TODD COVERLY.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

JOHN ELLIOT COWDIN.

(May 26.)—"In January, 1884, I started the firm of Johnson, Cowdin & Co. for the purpose of manufacturing silk ribbons. Our factory is at Paterson, and so far everything has gone smoothly. I was married on the 20th of this month to Miss Gertrude Cheever, of New York."

WILMOT TOWNSEND COX.

(March 6.)—Is still practising law in the office of the Counsel to the Corporation of New York City. Made a journey to New Foundland and Cape Breton in July, 1882, and in October, 1884, to San Francisco via Panama, and thence to Arizona. Is a member of the Calumet Club, the Harvard Club of New York, the Free Trade Club, the Young Men's Democratic Club, and the Civil Service Reform Society.

FRANK LINDSAY CRAWFORD.

(April 7.)—"I was admitted to the Bar in October, 1882. I continued in the office of Olin, Rives & Montgomery until May, 1883, when I formed a co-partnership with my brother at the above address, 229 Broadway, New York. I have been practising here ever since. I have made no journeys, and have been absent but little. I have written nothing, have taken no degrees, and have held no position of honor or emolument. I have found my professional duties sufficiently arduous and exacting to take all my time and strength. I have, however, enjoyed excellent health, and have felt an ever-growing interest in my work."

ALVAH CROCKER.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

CHARLES SUMNER CROSMAN.

(May 10.)—"The last five years I have been teaching in Washington. In addition to my work in that line I took the regular courses at the Law School of Columbian University, coming under Judge Cox and Assistant Attorney-General Maury. I enjoyed the courses extremely, but unfortunately my eyes and head went back on me, and I was obliged to give up any further study for the present. I was fortunate enough to get through the examinations successfully and obtain my degree. Last fall I accepted a position here (Haverford College Grammar School), and after being here about two months was appointed Head Master. I am extremely fond of teaching, and as I have fallen into a good berth shall continue here as things look now. A fortnight ago I received my appointment for five years, and so it looks as if I were a fixture. Am far better in health this spring than I have been for a number of years."

FRANCIS GEORGE CURTIS.

(May 14.)—"Since I last wrote you I have taken my degree of M. D., in May, 1883. In October of the same year I was appointed a member of the resident staff of St. Mary's General Hospital of Brooklyn, New York. There I served until January, 1885, when, my term of service being up, I left the hospital."

LIVINGSTON CUSHING.

(February 11.)—Is living at Weston, Mass., and practising law in Boston. Was married October 18, 1882, to Ada Thomas, of Brookline, Mass. Went abroad in 1883, from April to October. Is a member of the Puritan Club. In 1882 received the degree of LL.B, from Harvard and from the Boston University Law School.

JOHN WHITNEY DALZELL.

(March 27.)—"In 1882–1883 I was sub-master of the Waltham High School, which position I left in October, 1883, to take charge of a boy fitting for college. This brought me to Cambridge, where I have been ever since. At present I am teaching in a private school in Boston, and also doing private tutoring."

Is a member of two Masonic societies,—the Blue Lodge (4 degrees), and the Scottish (32 degrees). Also of the Philedian Association, a Waltham social club.

FRANK HERBERT DANIELS.

(February 24.)—"My life in the last three years has been a comparatively quiet one, and I have nothing of great interest to report. The time up to June, 1883, I spent at the Harvard Medical School in Boston, at which time I passed my examination for the ordinary degree of M. D. July 1, 1883, I was appointed House Physician at the Boston Lying-in Hospital, where I remained until January 1, 1884.

"In June, 1884, I passed my examination for the fourth-year degree of M. D., and was awarded M. D. (cum laude); at the same time (Commencement, 1884) I obtained the degree of A. M. The latter part of June, 1884, I was admitted to membership in the Massachusetts Medical Society. June 28, 1884, I sailed for Europe, and, after spending a few weeks in England and Scotland, I came directly to Munich. August 1, 1884, I was appointed by Professor Winckel Assistant Physician at the Frauenklinik, where I still am. On account of vacation at the University I did not enter on my duties as assistant until October 1. In December, 1884, I was admitted to membership in the Gynækologische Gesellschaft zu München. I shall return to Boston next autumn, but I have not yet determined where I shall practice."

*GEORGE HERBERT DAVIS.

Born May 7, 1856, at Boston, Mass.; died February 22, 1882, in the same city.

See Report II., pp. 61-63.

SAMUEL DELANO.

(April 10.)—"Since our last report my life has been running about in the same channel, which neither widens nor deepens, though it turned aside temporarily in a trip to Europe (February 13 to November 7, 1884). After leaving the Medical School I received an appointment at this (the City) Hospital (of Boston) for eighteen months. This I completed on the first of January, 1884, having had the medical service while in the house.

"By good fortune I was able to go to Europe for farther study. My plan was to stay a year and as much longer as might be. I stayed in Leipzig six weeks, in Munich some months, and in Prag several weeks. Soon after getting to Vienna, where I thought to stay some time, I was offered the position of assistant to the superintendent here, and concluded to come home for it. My especial work is that of a dwelling physician, and my duties are rather professional than executive. At the present outlook I am likely to stay some time, as long as I feel that the post is valuable."

WALTER DENIS DENEGRE.

(April 18.)—"Since I last reported progress for our Class Report No. 2 I have remained in New Orleans, short pleasure excursions and shorter business trips alone taking me from my office; however, a number of Harvard men, some of them of our class, wisely came South to see our magnificent Exposition, giving me an opportunity of renewing pleasant memories at meetings where we celebrated the reunion according to the Rules of the Picnic Club.

"I am still meeting with some success at the law; am unmarried and hope to remain so."

Is a member of the Pickwick Club, the St. John Rowing Club, and the Chess, Checkers and Whist Club.

*GEORGE LYMAN DOLLOFF.

George Lyman Dolloff was born in Exeter, N. H., Dec. 19, 1857, and was drowned at Exeter while bathing, September 20, 1882. His parents were Jonathan R. Dolloff and Sarah Conner, daughter of John Conner of Exeter. Jonathan R., the son of Stephen Dolloff, was engaged in farming in his native town, and died there about 1870.

Dolloff's early life was passed in Exeter, and he attended in regular succession the public schools of different grades. He did not graduate from the High School, but after three years' attendance there entered Phillips Exeter Academy in September, 1872. He took the regular classical course in the Academy, and was graduated June, 1875. He maintained a high rank during the whole time, standing among the first few of his class. In September, 1875, he began his course at Cambridge, having been admitted the July before with honors in Mathematics and Greek. The Freshman year he roomed on Cambridge street, but during the rest of the course was in No. 60 College House; the Sophomore year rooming with Hobbs (Harvard '80), and the last two years alone.

He confined himself in his choice of electives principally to Latin and Greek, taking second year honors in Classics. He belonged to none of the social or literary societies of the college. He took no part in the athletic sports, but spent the greater part of the time in his room over his books. For this reason Dolloff was personally well known but to a small portion of his classmates. The few with whom he was intimate can truly bear witness to the excellent traits of character he displayed, to his kind, friendly disposition, his untiring perseverance in his studies, and the faithful performance of everything which he felt belonged to him to do.

He was graduated June, 1879, and immediately entered upon what he had chosen to be his life's work, viz., teaching. He was appointed instructor in Mathematics in a private school at Ithaca, New York, under the charge of Professor Lucian A. Wait (Harvard '70) of Cornell University. This school, which was started as an experiment, was discontinued after this year (1879–80), and Dolloff returned to Exeter.

He was unsuccessful in finding a satisfactory situation in the fall of 1880, and became engaged in private tutoring at his home, and continued in that employment until his death. He had marked success in this work, using the same conscientious care and diligence with his pupils that he displayed in his own work at Cambridge. If any one could get a man through the entrance examinations for college, Dolloff could.

The summer preceding his death Dolloff spent with a pupil at Hampton Beach, N. H., returning home only a short time previous to the sad 20th of September. He had learned to swim that summer, and, like all other persons at first, took great delight in that amusement. On the day of his death, which was one of the warmest of the year, he went to the river at the usual place with a number of his companions for the purpose of bathing. Dolloff jumped in and immediately sank. His companions had crossed the river, and upon looking around for Dolloff could see nothing of him. They came back as quickly as possible and began the search. Although the body was recovered in a short time, all efforts at resuscitation were unavailing. As he never had had a very strong constitution, the physicians were of the opinion that he died from the shock. He left a mother and two sisters to mourn his untimely death. His funeral took place from his home, Saturday, September 23, 1882.

For many years he had been a consistent member of the First Baptist Church of Exeter, and while at Cambridge took a prominent part in the work of the "Society of Christian Brethren."

He was a devoted son and brother.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Class at Commencement, 1883:

WHEREAS, It has pleased God to take from us our friend and classmate, George Lyman Dolloff,

Resolved, That the Class of '79 mourns with deep sorrow the death of a comrade whose kindly and amiable disposition, persevering industry, and straight-forward Christian character, had earned the esteem of all who knew him.

Resolved, That we offer our heartfelt sympathy to his family in this sad affliction.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Exeter News Letter, the Exeter Gazette, and the Boston Daily Advertiser. J. A. B.

FRANK DONALDSON.

(February 3.)—Is practising medicine in Baltimore. In June, 1883, was elected to a scholarship in biology, Johns Hopkins University, and is now Chief of Clinic for, and instructor in, diseases of throat and chest (post graduate course), University of Maryland. Is a Governor in the Baltimore Club, Secretary of the Harvard Club of Maryland, member of the Harvard Club of New York, of the Civil Service Reform Association, the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, and the Clinical Society of Baltimore. Has published the following since the last report:

I. "Variation of Intra Cardiac Pressure on the Pneumogastric Nerve" (with H. Sewell). Journal of Physiology, London. Vol. III., No. 5.

II. "Observations on a Dog, with patent Ductus Arteriosus" (with W. H. Howell). Transactions of Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, 1882.

III. "Observations on the Heart of the Dog" (with W. H. Howell), Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society of England. Vol. I., 1884.

IV. "Epithelioma of the Tonsil." New York Medical Record. March 7, 1885.

V. "Reinfectio Syphilitica and Tonsillar Chancre." Transactions Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, 1885.

HERBERT BEEMAN DOW.

(February 14.)—"The next day but one after our last class dinner, with the first Triennial in my grip-sack, I started on a little summer trip to Minneapolis, where I spent six weeks very pleasantly. Returned home to Woburn via Washington, D. C., on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

"In September I went to my school in Orange, N. J., where I had been teaching for a year. During the Christmas holidays I returned to Massachusetts, and on New Year's day of 1883 was married in Woburn by Rev. Daniel March, to Miss Vanie Buck Robinson. We started immediately after the ceremony for New York, and on the morning of January 2 I introduced my wife to our new home in Orange, N. J. Here we remained until the summer vacation, when we returned home to Massachusetts for the summer.

"September found us in Orange again. After two months of teaching there, I received an offer from the Trustees of Proctor Academy, Andover, N. H., to again take charge of that institution. I had taught there, you remember, the second year of my teaching, and left there to accept a better salary in Orange. Now I was sent for to return at an advance on my Orange position, and as the ducats were what I was after, I left the first little home of my own that I had enjoyed so much for a twelve-month, and went back to Andover, exchanging a city for a country home. In Andover my position is much better than I had had before, and all the responsibility of the management of the school, together with charge of the finances, comes under my immediate care. My engagement here is for three years, one of which has passed, and part of another also."

Has a daughter, Ethel Robinson Dow, born at Andover, August 4, 1884. Is clerk of the New Hampshire Educational Society, and W. M. in Kearsarge Lodge, F. A. M. In June, 1884, received the degree of A. M. (Honorary) from Dartmouth College.

FRANCIS De MAURICE DUNN.

(May 17.)—"I began teaching, in a district school, the first Monday in December, 1879. Was called to the Shrewsbury (Mass.)

High School the following April. Taught there one year, when I received a call to the Grafton (Mass.) High School, where I remained until January 7, 1884. Since that time have taught in Marlboro. Have made a step higher in the profession, I think, at each change."

Was married June 28, 1883, at Grafton, Mass., to Riella Juliana Bullard of Snowville, Va., daughter of Truman S. and Juliana Bullard. Has a daughter, Helen De Maurice Dunn, born in Marlboro, April 2, 1884.

MOSES GRANT EDMANDS.

(February 16.)—"During the last three years I have made no change in business, being still in the employ of Preston & Merrill, office 70 Kilby street, Boston.

"May 22, 1883, I was married in Brookline, at the house of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Benton, to Miss Lillie C. Benton. For a few months after our marriage we lived principally at my father's house in Charlestown—my former home, but in October, 1883, we began housekeeping in Brookline. October 22, 1884, a daughter was born to us, whom we named Violet."

FREDERICK HAMANT ELLIS.

(May 8.)—Is practising law in Boston at 10 Tremont street. Was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in December, 1882.

RALPH WATERBURY ELLIS.

(March 5.)—"In response to your signal I send my little dispatch boat to join the fleet that is heading (via Anchor Line) for the Triennial Catalogue. In looking over my log (not catalog) I don't find much of general interest in the record of the voyage for the last three years. The crew still consists of two (no midshipmites); I don't discover any great increase in the cargo of this world's goods, but it has been smooth sailing, with no storms to speak of.

"To drop metaphor, I have a very fair law practice of just the sort I like—no criminal business, but mostly 'office work,' conveyancing and real estate titles. My spare time just now is mostly devoted to the Springfield Y. M. C. A., of which I am a Director and Recording Secretary, and to the First Church and Parish, of which latter I am Treasurer.

"That's all I have to say for myself. If 'anything new' happens in Springfield before Commencement, I will direct my executors to notify you. I shouldn't survive anything so unprecedented."

GLENDOWER EVANS.

(February 24.)—Is practising law in Boston, with an office at present at 39 Court street; residence, 12 Otis Place.

GEORGE FAUNCE.

(February 18.)—"July 1, 1882, I took the position of Assistant Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Lead Co.'s Works, Mansfield Valley, Pa., and have held that office ever since.

"May 31, 1882, I received the degree of B. S. from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"October 21, 1884, in Kingston, Mass., I was married to Miss Mabel Winthrop Mange of Kingston."

EDGAR CONWAY FELTON.

(April 26.)—"You will remember that my communication for the last Triennial Report reached you too late for insertion, so I will begin my contribution to your second report with my graduation.

"In September, 1879, Frank Taussig and I started for Europe together. We stayed in London about a month enjoying ourselves hugely, and among other short excursions going to Oxford, where I had a cousin, an undergraduate in New College, who gave us rather exceptional facilities for observing this the oldest of the English Universities. In London we separated, I going to Paris where I stayed about six weeks, sight-seeing and attending occasional lectures at the University. From Paris I went to Vienna, stopping on the way at Munich. Christmas and New Year's I was in Vienna with my uncle, who has lived there for about thirty years. Then I went south to Rome, where I found Ned Hale, and many a pleasant walk and talk we had together in the Eternal City. Here Frank Taussig joined me again, having finished a semester at the University, and we started off together, going though the Italian cities, making the tour of the Italian lakes, and crossing into Switzerland by the Simplon. After a short stay in Paris I started for home, taking a run through some of the cathedral towns of England and into Scotland on the way. Arriving home in June, 1880, I did nothing until the following September, when I went to work with the Pennsylvania Steel Company at their works in Steelton, near Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, where I have been ever since. My life has been, since then, uneventful but very busy. I started in the Chemical Laboratory where I worked about three months. I then had charge of the Hammer Mill for a year, and went in the latter part of 1881 to Syracuse, New York, where I worked for some time in a rolling mill as an ordinary laborer, my first duty being to learn how to shovel coal correctly. On my return from Syracuse I was given charge of the construction of a new rolling mill being built by the Pennsylvania Steel Co., and was made mill superintendent when this mill started in 1883. In October, 1883, I was elected Assistant Superintendent of the company. We employ from 2,000 to 2,500 men, and made last year about 182,000 tons of steel. Most of this we made into rails, of which we produced enough to lay about 1,630 miles of railroad, a greater distance than from New York to Omaha. So you see we had enough to keep us busy.

"I was married June 2, 1884, at Steelton, Pa., to Miss Alice Bent (daughter of Winslow Brigham and Jane Elizabeth [Tomlinson] Bent)."

Is a member of the Harrisburg Club; President for two terms of the Steelton Literary Institute; Secretary and Treasurer of the Steelton Library Association; member of the American Society of Mining Engineers, and of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; member of Board of School Directors.

JAMES ARTHUR GAGE.

(May 7.)—"It seems but a short time since I wrote you in the spring of 1882 telling you of my course of study at the Harvard Medical School. In the fall of the same year I began my third and last year at the school; and it proved to be the busiest, pleasantest and most profitable year of my student life. Being among the fortunate ones who obtained certain desirable hospital privileges, I had an opportunity to see the theory of medicine illustrated by the practice, and to feel that strange fascination that comes from dealing with the questions of life and death as they present themselves to the physician. In June, 1883, I passed my examinations for the degree of M. D.; and in the fall, armed with a certificate to that effect, I presented myself, with fifteen others, before the Board of Examiners of the Boston City Hospital as an applicant for the position of House Officer. Being successful I began my duties in January, 1884. For the first six months I was occupied in seeing and caring for the thousands of surgical cases that present themselves for treatment. During the second six months I became the junior Interne on the medical service, my duties requiring me to examine the patients and to keep records of the cases. During this time I presented myself for admission to the Massachusetts Medical Society, and was made a member. It was a matter of considerable interest that, at the same time, the first woman was admitted to membership in the Society—a fact significant of progress in our profession.

"In January, 1885, I became House Physician, serving under a visiting physician, and having under my care over eighty patients. I found the work hard, but so interesting as to offer ample compensation for my labor. Unfortunately, before I had completed my first month, I had caught the scarlet-fever, which, by some means, had been omitted from the category of my childhood's diseases, and in turn became myself a patient. After a sickness and convalescence of over two months I returned to duty, but was obliged to succumb a second time to a serious attack of diphtheria. Thanks to most excellent care, I am again convalescent, and am now writing you from my sick-room, where I have opportunity to study disease from the patient's standpoint—a tedious, though not unprofitable occupation. I assure you that my admiration for the accomplishments of medical science, or my enthusiasm in their pursuit, have not been in the least diminished by my sickness. I shall complete my service in July, and I shall then look forward to the practice of the profession I have had so long in preparation. I shall probably hang out the proverbial 'shingle' at my home, Lowell."

CHARLES WILLIAM GALLOUPE.

(May 15.)—"I spent a very pleasant three years in the Medical School in company with fourteen of our '79 men, and fulfilled the requirements for graduation in 1882, but did not take my degree on account of my intended hospital service. I spent three months in charge of the Convalescent Home at Waverly, and after that served as House Surgeon in the Massachusetts General Hospital from February, 1883, to February, 1884. From the hospital I came directly home and have practiced medicine here since in company with my father—a Harvard Medical School graduate of 1849. His practice being chiefly surgical, I have had a great deal to do in that line,—thirteen broken collar-bones as one item.

"The out-patient service of the Lynn Hospital, averaging over two hundred calls a month, is divided into terms of two months each, which another physician and I share alternately. This takes considerable valuable time, but gives a great variety of cases for treatment. I do not try to specialize at all in my practice, but I am glad to find so large a part of it surgical."

Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and is one of the Lynn School Committee. Read a paper January 27, 1885, before the Essex South District Medical Society, on "The Results of Sisterism in Amputation of the Breast." An abstract of the paper appeared in the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal of April 9, 1885. Had an article in the same journal for May 14, 1885, entitled "Poisoning from Sarsaparilla (?) Soda."

WARREN NORTON GODDARD.

(February 7.)—Since January 1, 1880, has been a member of the firm of J. W. Goddard & Son, New York, importers and converters of cotton goods. Belongs to the Union League Club, the Calumet Club, the New York Rowing Club, the Rockaway Hunting Club of Rockaway, and the Harvard Club of New York.

HERMAN WHEATON GRANNIS.

(May 7.)—"I am still in the employ of Franklin MacVeagh & Co., having been connected with that firm since my first arrival in Chicago, August, 1881. In addition I am President and Treasurer (and in those capacities Manager) of the Chicago Grocer Co., publishers of the Chicago Grocer, a weekly trade journal of fifty-two pages, and one that is rapidly assuming very considerable proportions, having a staff of three editorial writers and reporters, four traveling solicitors, a resident agent in New York who has charge of our eastern interests, besides correspondents in New York, Baltimore, Kansas City, St. Paul and Minneapolis, and Des Moines. I am a member of the Union Club, a social organization, and Treasurer as well as a member of the Executive Committee of the Young Republican Club, a political organization with a membership of about three thousand."

EDWARD HALE.

(May 5.)—"I came back from Europe in September, 1882, and during the college year, 1882–1883, was secretary to President Eliot. In August, 1883, I entered the office of H. H. Richardson, the architect, in Brookline, Massachusetts, and studied architecture under Mr. Richardson for the next five months. In January, 1884, I left Mr. Richardson's office and entered the Divinity School of Harvard University. I am following the regular three years' course in the school, and hope to take the degree of Bachelor of Divinity in 1886."

Is engaged.

CHARLES STEDMAN HANKS.

(February 13.)—Is practising law in Boston. Admitted to the Bar May 1, 1883.

LEWIS BRANCH HARDING.

(February 3.)—Is a member of the firm of W. C. Harding & Co., manufacturers of woolen goods, Stamford, Connecticut. Sailed for Europe July 15, 1883, returning November 27. Was married January 9, 1884, at Stamford, Connecticut, to Annie Amelia Jenckes, daughter of Marcian and Amelia Marian Bates Jenckes.

WILLIAM BURT HARLOW.

(May 29.)—In 1880 was appointed Professor of English in the High School at Syracuse, N. Y. In July and August, 1884, made a tour through Scotland, England, France, Switzerland, Germany and Belgium. In 1882 published a pamphlet, "Selections from Early English," and in 1884, "Early English Literature," published by C. W. Bardeen of the School Bulletin publications in Syracuse. Received a Ph. D. from Syracuse University in 1883.

RICHARD HEARD.

(April 13.)—"For the last three years my health has been so unreliable as to prevent me from working steadily any length of time at any one thing, and my attention has been mostly devoted to keeping myself fairly well. I have made one trip abroad, of which no mention was made in the last report, as I returned too late to notify you. Briefly, it was a voyage from New York to Bordeaux, touching at the Azores from Bordeaux to Marseilles, and from there to Athens by steamer of the Messageries Maritimes, touching at Naples. I returned the same way. I went to Marseilles, and from there to Paris, where I stayed a month, when I returned by the French line to New York. The whole trip was made between the beginning of November, 1881, and March, 1882. Since that time I have not been long enough occupied in any one thing to be worth mentioning."

SAMUEL H. HILL.

(March 31.)—Is practising law in Minneapolis under the firm name of Atwater & Hill. Partnership formed July, 1883. Has made divers business and pleasure trips to Boston, New York and Philadelphia during the three years, and occasionally to New Orleans. Writes as follows (March 31):

"I was a 'mugwump' and spent about three months,—August,

September and October, 1884,—in an attempt to promulgate 'doctrines of opposition' among 'the faithful.' Have joined no new clubs since last report, except 'The Minnetonka,' of which I am Secretary; the 'Union League,' of which I was President for three years; 'the Nicollet' (one of the social clubs of Minneapolis), of which I am now President, and 'The Lafayette.' The latter has a house open during the summer season at Lake Minnetonka."

WILLIAM BANCROFT HILL.

(February 23.)—"When our last Report came out I was in Baltimore in a lawyer's office. I was admitted to the Bar soon afterward, and lingered around that bar for half a dozen months. Then I reformed and was ready to carry out an old desire and study for the ministry. As a preliminary step I went west with the intention of trying my hand at mission work in Kansas. An odd chain of events led me to take instead a position as teacher in Park College, a remarkable and sui generis institution at Parkville, Mo. I remained there teaching regularly and preaching more or less until the fall of 1883, when I entered the Union Theological Seminary in New York City. Here I have been ever since and expect to be another year, digging into theology and Hebrew, and preparing myself for my future profession, a profession of which I grow more fond each day.

"In regard to the other queries of your circular I need say but little. My writings are mainly sermons, and I am not so inconsiderate as to inflict them on you. In the matrimonial sky there is not even a cloud as large as a man's hand. I agree with Paul that while marriage may be a good thing under favorable circumstances, celibacy is better 'for the present distress.' Trips abroad? None. College degrees, societies, etc.? Likewise none. In short, a clear record."

GEORGE HOADLY.

(April 7.)—"I am at present, as I have been since the last Triennial Report, living here (Cincinnati), and in this office (Hoadly, Johnson & Colston), practising law. I was admitted to the Bar at the regular examination on the first Tuesday in October, 1882, and soon after was appointed Assistant General Counsel of the so-called Erlanger System of Railroads, which position I still hold. My life has been quite uneventful, but busy and reasonably interesting. I have been engaged in some heavy litigation and have prospered as well as I could expect in a professional point of view."

Is a member of the University Club of Cincinnati, of the Literary Club of Cincinnati, and is Treasurer of the Harvard Club.

ANDREW HALL HODGDON.

(February 26.)—"Finishing my course at the Harvard Medical School in June, 1882, I entered the Massachusetts General Hospital in the following August, and remained there till August, 1883. After that I passed six months in the Boston Lying-in Hospital, and then in March, 1884, came to Dedham, where I have been busily engaged in following my profession. The only office I hold is that of Medical Examiner in Norfolk County."

Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and of the Massachusetts Medico-Legal Society.

GEORGE CLARENDON HODGES.

(April 13.)—Is practising law in Boston, having an office with Ayers, at 56 Sears Building. Was assistant secretary of the Independent Committee, Boston, and did much active work to defeat Blaine.

JABISH HOLMES.

(May 22.)—"I have been engaged in the study of law since leaving college, and was admitted to the Bar of the State of New York as attorney and counsellor at law in May, 1881. I have an office with ex-Judge Horace Russell, at 280 Broadway."

Is a member of the University Club, the Harvard Club, the City Reform Club, and the New England Society in the city of New York.

THOMAS JOHNSTON HOMER.

(May 7.)—"I was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in January, 1883, after obtaining the degree of LL.B. from the Harvard Law School in June, 1882. In April, 1883, I was made a Justice of the Peace, and in June, 1883, I was admitted to practice in the Circuit Court of the United States. In December, 1884, I became interested in the investigation of the French Spoliation Claims, and in April, 1885, I went to Washington to examine into the evidence on file in the Department of State, and was admitted to practice in the United States Court of Claims. In April, 1885, I was elected one of the Board of Managers of a corporation entitled 'The Roxbury Home for Children and Aged Women,' but I do not consider my philanthropic tendencies as yet fully developed! I belong to the Longwood Cricket Club and the Dorchester Tennis Club."

ABRAM DUANE HOPKINS.

(March 19.)—"Since the last report I have been located here in New York, holding the position of assistant teacher in Mr. W. W. Richards's School for Boys, 110 West 42d Street. Mr. Richards, a Harvard graduate of '55, makes a specialty of fitting boys for Harvard. Beside my teaching in the school I have given private tuition."

SAMUEL HOWLAND HOPPIN.

(February 12.)—Is practising law in New York. Has been for past two years Secretary of the Calumet Club. Term of office expired in 1885. Is still a member of the Governing Committee.

EDWARD LOVELL HOUGHTON.

(February 7.)—"Your note asking information for the second Triennial Report of our class reached me here (Medford, Mass.) to-day, forwarded from Tabor. When the corresponding request came for the first report, I was in the midst of my course at Andover Seminary. My course there went on without particular incident to my graduation in June, 1883. During the summer following I had charge of the Congregational Church at Newfane, Windham county,

Vermont. Meanwhile I had accepted a position as instructor in Norton Academy, Wilton Junction, Iowa, and shortly after my marriage August 16, 1883 (to May L. Burrill, of Medford, Mass.), we started for what we then supposed would be our home for several years at least. But I found matters there quite unsatisfactory, and very different from what they had been represented to me, and, consequently, severed my connection with the school at the end of the winter term and returned to Medford, Mass., which has been our residence since. My theological views had for a long time been undergoing a gradual change, and this development culminated in my disconnecting myself from the Congregational Church, and June 1, 1884, entering the Universalist. Soon after, I was licensed to preach by that body, and have since been preaching in Universalist churches. I am not yet settled over any particular church, but have a call now under consideration, and expect soon to know where I am to reside and labor for some time to come.

"I have another work in process of preparation, in addition to the one mentioned on the blank*, which was published last September. It is to be a Manual of Theological Beliefs. I do not expect to complete it this year, however, and it will have to wait for the next Triennial before it can receive mention in our reports."

Is a member of the Universalist Ministers' Club.

Writes later (April 18):—"I have received and accepted a call to the pastorate of the Universalist Church at Arlington, Mass. I began my work here the first Sunday in April, Easter Sunday. So far as I can judge, I am very pleasantly situated, and hope to be able to do good work. Expect to be ordained June 25."

FRANK AUGUSTINE HOUSTON.

(May 10.)—"Two months ago (March 1) I received offers from the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co., which I finally decided to accept. Of course this necessitates learning the rudiments of the business, in which condition I now am. As you will perhaps remember I was a practising lawer, so this will seem to you a great departure. It is impossible for me to tell at present whether I shall keep on in the legal profession, in the special branch of telephone business, or whether I shall become an out and out business man."

WILLIAM DeCREET HOWARD.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

WILLIAM HAMMOND HUBBARD.

(February 4.)—Left the North Chicago Rolling Mills in the fall of 1884. January 1, 1885, became Secretary of the Weare Land and Live Stock Co., which is his present occupation. Was married October 15, 1884, at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to Susan Campbell Weare, daughter of John and Martha Rogers Weare. Belongs to the Union Club; the Congregational Club; is Director of the Chicago Relief and Aid Society; Treasurer of the New West Education Commission, and Trustee and Treasurer of the Las Vegas Academy, Las Vegas, New Mexico.

WOODWARD HUDSON.

(February 15.)—August 18, 1884, became a law-student in the office of Ropes, Gray & Loring, 40 State street, Boston. Is living at Concord, Mass. Writes (February 15):—I was admitted to practice at the Suffolk Bar on June 12, 1882. August 9, 1882, left Concord for Quebec, whence we sailed for Liverpool August 12, by the Allan Line. Visited England, Scotland, France, Italy, the Tyrol, Bavaria, Prussia, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, the Rhine, Switzerland, Austria, Saxony, Belgium and Holland. Returned to Boston by the Cunard Line, sailing May 28, 1884, and arriving June 5. Went to New York as delegate to the Independent Conference held on July 22, 1884. Began work at the law on August 18. Was elevated to the dignity of Justice of the Peace on December 17, 1884.

Is Vice-President of the Concord Club, President of the Concord Free Trade Club, associate member of the American Society for Psychical Research, and a member of the Massachusetts Tariff Reform League.

AUSTIN HUNTINGTON.

(May 11.)—Is practising law in New York as a member of the firm of Huntington & Huntington, 156 Broadway. Admitted to the Bar July 17, 1880. Was married April 15, 1885, in New York, to Mary Blackstone Freeman, daughter of John Morton and Emily Francis Blackstone Freeman, of New York.

WILLIAM EVERETT HUTCHINS.

(May 8.)—Is practising law in Boston, 65 Sears Building. Was married September 20, 1882, in Boston, to Carrie Walker Murphy, daughter of William and Sophia Walker, of Boston. Has a daughter, Mary Stearns Hutchins, born at Cambridge, November 15, 1883. Made a business trip to England and France in December, 1884, and the early part of 1885. Is a member of the Newetowne Club, a social and literary club meeting monthly at Young's.

WILLIAM De WITT HYDE.

(April 8.)—"The year 1882–3 I spent in the post-graduate class in Andover Seminary, taking at the same time Professor Palmer's post-graduate course in Hegel, at Harvard. In September, 1883, I came to Paterson, N. J., where I was ordained, and installed as Pastor of the Auburn-street Congregational Church. Since then I have been busy with work and study, paying the traditional church debt, which, when I came here, was some $5,000, and trying as best I can to keep up with the philosophical thought of the times."

Was married November 6, 1883, at Washingtonville, N. Y., to Prudence Melissa Phillips of Southbridge, Mass., daughter of Alpha and Prudence H. Phillips. Two children, William Hyde and Elizabeth Beach Hyde, born October 10, 1884, died together October 24, 1884.

Is a member of the "Delta Alpha," a local clerical club; of "Friends in Council," a club which meets in New York City for the discussion of ethical questions; and also of a philosophical club which has no name, composed of professional men in New York City and vicinity. Has published two essays:

1. "The Metaphysical Basis of Belief in God."—New Englander, September, 1883.

2. "An Analysis of Consciousness In Its Bearing on Eschatology."—New Englander, November, 1884.

DAVID OTIS IVES.

(May 21.)—June 1, 1884, entered William H. Swift & Co.'s Chemical Works, East Boston, where he now is. Did not enter his father's office, in 1881, as stated in last Report.

GEORGE WEST JACKSON.

(April 17.)—"I finished my course at the Boston Law School, and took my degree of LL.B. (cum laude) in June, 1882, and on the 22d of June was admitted to practice.

"Thinking I had earned a vacation I went to Europe for the summer (June 30 to October 15) and followed the beaten track in all such tours.

"Shortly after my return I began to practise, but becoming interested in the Harwood Cattle Company, I concluded to abandon the law for a time and try cattle ranching. So in March, 1883, I came out to Kansas, and have since followed this pursuit.

"My address for the present is Dodge City, Kansas, but as there is some uncertainty as to what length of time I may remain here, a safer one will be 84 Dudley street, Boston, Mass., whence all letters will be forwarded."

MARTIN REILEY JACOBS.

(February 22.)—Is in the stock and lumber business (M. R. Jacobs & Co.) at Brownsville, Fayette county, Pa. Is a member of the Pittsburgh Club (social).

HENRY WARREN JOHNSON.

(February 6.)—Since September, 1882, has been Principal of the Gould Academy, Bethel, Maine. Is Chairman of the Bethel School Committee, President of the Oxford County Teachers' Association, and a member of the Executive Committee of the Oxford County Musical Association. Is to deliver a lecture April 7, on "The Eye" (illustrated), in the Bethel Lecture Course.

WEBSTER KELLEY.

(February 14.)—"My chronicle breaks off in the winter of 1881–2, which found me in Duxbury, Mass. Remained in Duxbury teaching until October, 1882, and then drifted into the Law School at Cambridge, intending to gain, if possible, an A. M. degree, now granted for a year's work in one of the professional schools. I found that I liked law sufficiently to continue the course until the present time. Have been a member of the Gray, and later, of the Ames-Gray Law Clubs, the two Clubs consolidating in 1883. Am a member of the Webster Historical Society, and, like every one else, of the Tariff Reform League.

"A Fourth of July Address on 'The Permanence of our Institutions,' delivered in Pilgrim Church, Duxbury, in 1882, was printed to be sold for the Sunday-school. As a finale I may record that my vote on November fourth was cast for St. John."

PRESCOTT KEYES.

(March 23.)—"In June, 1882, I was admitted to the Suffolk Bar; soon after I entered into partnership with John F. Brown, Esq., of the Class of 1872, and hung out my shingle at 42 Court street, Boston. Since then I have been in practice in Boston, but living in Concord as formerly."

CHARLES ARCHBALD KIDDER.

(May 16.) — Is still with Kidder, Peabody & Co., Boston. Made a trip to Europe in the summer of 1882, and to Mexico in autumn of the same year. Is a member of the Somerset, Union and Country Clubs, of Boston.

EDWARD PHIPPS KINGSBURY.

(April 11.)—Since August, 1884, has been an Examiner in the Pension office, Washington.

HENRY NASON KINNEY.

(April 9.)—"From July 12, 1882, to February 20, 1884, my residence was in Fergus Falls, Minnesota, where I was pastor of the Congregational Church. While in Minnesota I was a member of the Visiting Committee of Carleton College. Was one of the judges at the Junior Prize Speaking at this college in 1883; also was one of the regular speakers at the Commencement Dinner. Delivered a lecture in a course at Wahpeton, Dakotah Territory, on 'The Church Building Spirit of the Middle Ages.'

"The climate of the Northwest was too severe for me. I came East, and during most of 1884 was under treatment for my throat. Declining a position offered in one of the new Western colleges, I was installed pastor, December 30, 1884, of the First Congregational Church, Winsted, Litchfield County, Connecticut."

Has two children; Marian, born May 26, 1883, at Fergus Falls, Minnesota, and a daughter, born March 24, 1885, at Sackett's Harbor, New York.

WALTER MOODY LANCASTER.

(April 21.)—"In March, 1882, I entered the establishment of H. Hosford & Co., wholesale and retail dry-goods dealers of Lowell, who had especial facilities, owing to their intimate connection with the large cotton factories of the city. This occupation proved unexpectedly distasteful to me, and November 1, 1882, I accepted the position of night editor of the Lowell Morning Mail, which is now the leading daily in the place. Owing to the energetic policy adopted shortly after I became connected with the paper, I have enjoyed a variety of experience that could hardly be excelled in a much larger city than Lowell, where the population is hardly 75,000."

Is a member of the Middlesex Mechanics' Association, the Argus Club (political), the Vesper Boat Club, and Secretary of the Yorick Club (social).

WILLIAM BADGER LAWRENCE.

(February 16.)—In June, 1882, received the degree of LL.B. from the Harvard Law School. Then traveled in Europe for six months, and in the spring of 1883 opened a law office in Boston, at 23 Court street. Lives at Medford, Mass. Was married October 2, 1883, at Dorchester, Mass., to Alice May Sears, daughter of J. Henry and Emily Nickerson Sears. Has one daughter, Marjorie Lawrence, born at Medford, September 9, 1884.

ARTHUR HOWARD LEE.

Since 1882 has been foreman in the Lackawanna Iron and Coal Company's Steel Works, Scranton, Pa. Is corporal in Co. A., 13th Regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania.

THOMAS LEE.

Has given up business for science. Writes February 9, from U. S. Fish Comm. Steamer Albatross, Pensacola, Fla. "I got a chance to come off with the Albatross for a cruise in the Caribbean Sea and Gulf of Mexico, and jumped at it, and have had a pleasant trip of it, touching at Key West, Havana, Cozumel,—a small island off Yucatan, where we got a lot of nice birds,—and lastly, at Pensacola, where we have been looking at the Red Snapper fisheries. From here we leave for New Orleans, and lay for some time before turning north. The officers are a nice, pleasant set of fellows, and we have had a rattling good time. I expect to work at the Smithsonian for some time—how long depends on so many things that it is not worth while to enumerate them. I tell you I am glad to be out of business, though I may get starved out of science, and driven back to it again. But I shall live on my fat a long time first."

A clipping from a New Orleans newspaper mentions "Prof. Thomas Lee" as among those on board the Albatross.

FREDERICK MOSES LEONARD.

(May 16.)—Is practising law in Philadelphia, at 32 South Third street. Admitted to the Philadelphia Bar June 19, 1882. Is a member of the Law Association of Philadelphia, the Law Academy of Philadelphia, Sharswood Law Club, Harvard Club of Philadelphia, Civil Service Reform Association, and Belmont Cricket Club.

Has published "Hawkins on the Construction of Wills," second American edition, Philadelphia, 1885. Has also helped Judge Hare to prepare preliminary editions of his works on contracts and on constitutional law, and is now occupied with Mr. Rawle upon the fifth edition of his "Covenants for Title."

HERMAN STEWART LEROY.

(May 9.)—Is still in business in New York as a broker. Has two sons, Herman LeRoy, born in New York, August 23, 1883, and Robert LeRoy, born February 7, 1885, also in New York.

FRANK VIRGIL McDONALD.

(May 25.)—"I have nothing new to report. I am not yet definitely fixed in any place. Am unmarried."

WALLACE MACFARLANE.

(February 3.)—Since October, 1881, has been practising law in New York, in the office of Miller & Macfarlane, 261 Broadway.

CHARLES SAMUEL MACK.

(May 22.)—"Since taking my M. D. in October, 1882, I have served in New York Hospitals, where my work ended February 1, 1885. Less than a week ago I came to Cold Spring, N. Y., to assist a physician who has a large country practice. My stay here is to be temporary only. In a few months I hope to settle where I shall remain, but I do not know where that will be."

FRANCIS McLENNAN.

(February 23.)—"You ask me to write some account of my doings and misdoings since the last Report, and I am at a loss what to say, for like most bachelors I find life devoid of incident. I don't suppose that the married members of the Class will have the same difficulty, if ancient saws are to be believed.

"The summer of 1882 I passed abroad, spending most of my time in London, doing a good deal of quiet prowling about. In April, 1884, I took my degree in law (B. C. L.) at McGill College, and had the honor of reading the valedictory. In June, 1885, I was admitted to the Bar, and am now practising alone at No. 186 St. James street, Montreal."

Is a member of the "Shakespeare Club," Montreal.

HENRY EDGAR MADDEN.

(April 25.)—Is practising law in Chicago, at 172 La Salle street.

FRANCIS COFFIN MARTIN.

(February 11.)—"I studied medicine at the Harvard Medical School from 1879–82. Spent 1882–3 in New York City, very pleasantly and profitably, at the New York Polyclinic (a post-graduate School of Medicine), and in hospital and dispensary work. Since the latter part of 1883, I have spent my life almost wholly in the active practice of medicine in Roxbury. I am settled in practice here now, and see no immediate prospect of any change."

Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and of the Calumet Club, New York. Wrote an article in the New York Medical Record, February 7, 1885, entitled "Martin's Method of Treatment of Synovitis, especially of the Knee Joint."

ATHERTON PERRY MASON.

(May 31.)—"I graduated from the Harvard Medical School in June, 1882. My Graduation Thesis on Coca was deemed of sufficient medical value to be printed.

"I spent the summer of 1882 at home, and in September, 1882, went to East Somerville, where I opened an office for practice. I also attended hospital exercises to some extent in Boston during my stay in Somerville. I found that Somerville was a very dull and uncongenial place—a kind of cemetery—a sleeping place for Boston business men. While in Somerville I was a member of the Somerville Branch of the Law and Order League; also of Unity Club, a social club connected with the Unitarian Church there.

"In February (the 8th day thereof), 1884, I pulled up stakes and started for Fitchburg. I opened my office here on February 28, and am gradually working in. I read a paper on 'Neuralgia and Neuritis' at the quarterly meeting of the Worcester North District Medical Society in July, 1884. This paper was commended and obtained for me some reputation as a literary individual. I also read a paper on 'Diphtheria and Croup,' before the Fitchburg Society for Medical Improvement, in December, 1884.

"I was a mugwump, as I understand most of the '79 men were, and was a member of the Fitchburg Independent Republican Club."

Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Worcester North District Medical Society, the Fitchburg Society for Medical Improvement, the Fitchburg Harvard Club, and the Windsor Club (social).

March 3, 1885, I was chosen Treasurer of the First Parish (Unitarian) church of Fitchburg.

Has published the following articles:

1. Erythroxylon Coca: its Physiological Effect, and Especially its Effect on the Excretion of Urea by the Kidneys (Graduation Thesis, Harvard Medical School). Published in the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal of September 7, 1882.

2. Camping at Monadnock Lake. A sketch printed in the Peterboro (N. H.) Transcript of June 26, 1884.

3. Wachusett Mountain and Princeton. Published in the Bay State Monthly (Boston), October, 1884.

4. Fitchburg in 1885. (Illustrated.) Published in the Bay State Monthly, March, 1885.

5. Rambles among Massachusetts Hills. Published in the Bay State Monthly, May, 1885.

CHARLES JEREMIAH MASON.

(February 19.)—"The last two or three years of my life have been satisfactory, thank God; but more or less uneventful. The attempt which I made to do pastoral work in the South failed merely on account of ill-health. So I returned North from Maryland, not knowing exactly what step to take next. On my way North, however, I stopped in Philadelphia, where, by the grace of God, I soon got to work again, as the assistant of the French Church of 'Saint Sauveur,' with which I have been connected ever since. I do not know where I shall be next winter. Of late years my summers have been chiefly spent at Mount Desert. There is nothing more to say, so I will say it."

Is living in Philadelphia; was ordained a Deacon in the Episcopal ministry May, 1883, at the Berkeley Divinity School, Middleton, Conn. Has written one or two stray bits of verse, one on an incident in "The Story of Ida," which was very generously praised by "Francesca" (Fanny Alexander), the authoress. Is a member of the St. Stephen's (Church) Club, Philadelphia, of the Société Française de Bienfaisance de Philadelphie, and of other societies.

HENRY CHAPMAN MERCER.

(February 7.)—Became a member of the Philadelphia Bar in 1881. In 1882–3 traveled through England, France, Egypt, Austria and Germany. In 1885 published "The Senape Stone; or, The Indian and the Mammoth": G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. Is a member of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, the Bucks County (Pa.) Historical Society, and the Social Art Club, Philadelphia.

GEORGE von LENGERKE MEYER.

(May 25.)—"I have been living in Boston, as usual, and my address is Somerset Club."

GEORGE NORTON MILLER.

(May 11.)—Graduated from the Harvard Medical School in 1882. Has been in Europe over two years, as a student at Vienna, Berlin and Heidelberg. Returned to this country May 31, 1885.

JAMES WILLIAM MITCHELL.

Is a member of the Natick School Committee, and of the Board of Trustees of the Morse Institute Public Library. Is the "Orator of the Day" for Saxonville, South Framingham and Framingham on Memorial Day, May 30. His oration is entitled "The Civil War; a Step in the Evolution of the Ideal State."

HERBERT WILLIAM NEWHALL.

(June 1.)—Graduated from the Harvard Medical School in 1884, after taking the four-years' course, and received the degrees of A. M. and M. D. He entered the Massachusetts General Hospital August, 1883, and served one year as Medical House Officer. September 1, 1883, he entered the Boston Lying-in Hospital, and served as House Officer there for four months. He sailed for Europe February 11, with the intention of spending a year or more in medical studies. He is at present at Würzburg, Bavaria, learning the German language.

JOHN LORING NICHOLS.

(April 20.)—Since March 1, 1882, has been President of the Fiske Wharf and Warehouse Co., Boston. Has two sons, John Robert Nichols, born May 16, 1883, and Charles Eliot Nichols, born October 25, 1884, both at Somerville. Is Vice-President of "The Republican and Independent Club of Somerville," and did some hard mugmump work during the last campaign.

JESSE ROWLAND NORTON.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

CHARLES PIERCE NUNN.

(February 16.)—Is still with A. M. Howland & Co., Commission Merchants, 168 Congress street, Boston. Residence at East Lexington, Mass.

CHARLES NATHAN OSGOOD.

(April 10.)—For the past two years has been in Minneapolis with the Commissioner of the Northwestern Traffic Association. Was married June 6, 1883, in Waltham, Massachusetts, to Margaret Nelson Alexander, daughter of Marshall P. Alexander and Priscilla D. Calderwood (Alexander). Has a son, Harold Alexander, born April 9, 1885, at Minneapolis.

FRANCIS BARTLETT PATTEN.

(April 7.)—"I have very little to tell. I have spent most of the time in studying law. I have made some trips with the Appalachian Club—one to the Catskills and one to the White Mountains.

"In the spring of 1884, I re-visited Savannah after fifteen years absence, and spent about four months there and in Florida. I was invited by a veteran hunter of ''gaters' to accompany him on an expedition down the Wacissa and Aucilla rivers, and thus had an opportunity to explore the semi-tropical forest region on the Gulf coast, and to see the alligator in his native jungle.

"I was also able to assist in the ceremonies of the Southern 'Memorial Day,' the 26th of April, and to witness the festivities of Emancipation Day in Florida—a genuine negro Saturnalia—on the 20th of May, and finally was favored with two weeks of malarial fever at Savannah."

Is practising law in Boston at 10 Tremont street. Admitted to the Suffolk Bar in June, 1883.

Had an article in the American Law Review for November–December, 1884, on "The Rights and Duties of Corporations in Dealing with Stock held in a Fiduciary Capacity."

EDWARD CLIFFORD PERKINS.

(February 3.)—Is practising law in New York as a member of the firm of Gray & Davenport, 115 Broadway. Was admitted to the Bar in November, 1882. Went abroad in 1881, from April to August. Was married August 2, 1882, at Windsor, Vt., to Elizabeth Hoar Evarts, daughter of William M. Evarts. Has two children, Edward Newton Perkins, Jr., born May 3, 1883, and William Maxwell Evarts Perkins, born September 20, 1884.

FREDERICK GARDINER PERRY.

(February 12.)—Last July left the Prang Co., and in October, 1884, became interested in The Educational Supply Co., 6 Hamilton Place, Boston.

Was married December 10, 1884, at Dorchester, Mass., to Annie Moseley, daughter of Frederick Pierce Moseley, and Mary Eaton Clark (Moseley).

ALBERT POOR.

(April 20.)—Is practising law at 42 Court street, Boston. Residence, 165 Boylston street.

FRANK LESLIE PORTER.

(March 13.)—Since September, 1883, has been in the insurance business in Lawrence, Mass. Was married July 31, 1884, at Boston, to Eudelle May Knapp, daughter of Warren and Polly F. Knapp of Lowell, Mass.

HARFORD WILLING HARE POWEL.

(April 11.)—Is practising law in Philadelphia, at 708 Walnut street. Was admitted to the Philadelphia Bar in January, 1884.

WALLACE PREBLE.

(February 10.)—"After leaving the Harvard Medical School, in 1882, I served a year and a half in the Boston City Hospital as one of the house physicians, therefore was not allowed my degree until June, 1883. Getting through with the Hospital in January, 1884, I opened an office February 1. From June to November, 1884, I spent in Walpole, Mass., having charge of the medical practice of Dr. S. E. Stone. In November, 1884, I returned to Boston, and began practice for myself again."

Is a member of the Roxbury Tennis Club, the Roxbury Social Comedietta Club, and the Massachusetts Medical Society, Suffolk district.

WALTER CONWAY PRESCOTT.

(February 12.)—Is still with Kidder, Peabody & Co., 113 Devonshire street, Boston. Is living at Charlestown.

THOMAS WEBB PRESTON.

(February 23.)—Is still on a ranche in Middle Park, Colorado, raising stock. Postoffice address, "Troublesome, Grand County, Col." Is engaged.

EARL BILL PUTNAM.

(May 9.)—"My residence is still Rochester, and occupation that of the law, in which I was admitted to practice in January, 1882. From January, 1882, until January, 1883, I remained with Messrs. Cooke & Pond, with whom I had studied. In January, 1883, I opened an office, but in February of the same year became junior member of the firm of Shepard & Putnam, which continued until November, 1883, since which time I have practised alone.

"I was married October 17, 1882, at Waterville, N. Y., to Grace Williams Tower of Philadelphia, daughter of Charlemagne and Amelia M. Tower. My only child, Amelia Tower Putnam, was born at Rochester, August 26, 1883.

"My address for the present and until further notice is P. O. Box 12; office, 3 Rochester Savings Bank Building; house, 179 Spring street.

BENJAMIN RAND.

(May 21.)—"I spent the year after graduation at Harvard, and obtained the degree of A. M. During the two following years I studied at Newton Theological Seminary. I was then appointed by the Harvard authorities to the Walker Fellowship, which is given in the Department of Philosophy. This Fellowship I have held for the three years (1882–5) included in this Triennial Report. Upon receiving this appointment I went to Heidelberg, Germany, where I studied during the entire period of my residence abroad under Kuno Fischer, the great historian of Modern Philosophy. During the spring recess of 1883 I made a trip into Italy, visiting Milan, Rome, Florence and Venice. During the autumn recess of the same year a short tour was made in the Alps. About the close of the winter semester of 1884 I was compelled through ill-health to return home and take a needed rest. I have therefore worked during the past year at old Harvard. The chief result of the labor of this year has been a small work (unpublished) upon 'Consciousness and Immortality.' A translation from Fischer, entitled 'The Centennial of the Critique of Pure Reason,' has been published in the Journal of Speculative Philosophy."

Will receive the degree of Ph. D. the coming Commencement, he having passed the examination successfully, and his thesis on "Consciousness and Immortality" having been accepted.

WILLIAM MINARD RICHARDSON.

(April 6.)—" I entered the Harvard Law School in October, 1879, and took the three years course, graduating in June, 1882, with degree of LL.B. I was admitted to practice in our State Courts in June, 1882, and have been engaged ever since in active practice with the firm of Morse & Stone of Boston. I am unmarried—have led an uneventful, though busy life, since leaving college."

EDWARD ROBINSON.

Is still a student of Greek Art and Archæology. Entered upon this study in Boston in 1880. Has since pursued it in Asia Minor (May 1—October 1, 1881); Greece (October 1, 1881—May 21, 1882); Italy (May 26, 1882—July, 1883, with a stay of ten weeks, August to October, 1882, in Munich); and Berlin (October 1, 1883, to March 1, 1885). Writes as follows from Berlin (February 19):—"To give a detailed account of all my wanderings would take more time and paper than I could spare or you would care for. I think you have a tolerably complete account of me up to my arrival in Berlin, October 1, 1883. During the winter semester of 1883–4, and the principal part of the summer semester of 1884, I was a regularly matriculated student in the University here. On May 30, 1884, my mother died in Berlin. On June 7 I sailed with her remains from Bremen for America, and remained there until July 9, when I sailed from New York to Bremen, and returned directly to Berlin. From the middle of August to the middle of October I was traveling, principally in the Tyrol, and then returned to Berlin. I began the winter semester at the University, but owing to a severe strain on my nervous system during the foregoing year (due to overwork combined with illness in the family), was obliged to leave the University and take complete rest for two months. Since January I have been working, but not in the University. March 1 to April 10 (about) I expect to be in Greece, making a trip through the interior of the country. The following two months perhaps in Italy. Beyond that, uncertain."

EDWARD ABBOTT ROBINSON.

(February 5.)—Since July, 1883, has been preaching at Hingham Centre, Mass.

HIRAM HOLBROOK ROSE.

(April 8.)—Is practising law in Chicago, at 162 Washington street.

THOMAS RUSSELL.

(May 2.)—"In the summer of 1882 Justice Gray of the Supreme Court of the United States asked me to accompany him to Washington the following winter as his Secretary, to assist him in his legal work there. I accepted the post with much pleasure, and passed a very agreeable winter at Washington, having my time fully occupied with very pleasant work and delightful society. I left Judge Gray in June, 1883, and entered the office of Russell & Putnam, counsellors at law, of which firm my father is senior member, where I have been ever since, having been admitted to practice at the Suffolk Bar in January, 1884."

Is one of the House Committee of the Puritan Club, Boston, and a member of the Old Colony Club, Plymouth.

HENRY RUFUS SARGENT.

(February 12.)—"I entered the General Theological Seminary of the American Church in September, 1882, and shall receive Deacon's Orders when I graduate in June of the present year.

In addition to my duties at the Seminary I have worked, while in New York, as teacher and district visitor at St. Paul's Chapel (Trinity Parish), and, for a time, in a German mission under the care of the Sisterhood of St. John Baptist and the Order of the Holy Cross, whose Superior is a graduate of Harvard.

"I spent the summer of 1883 as a lay-reader in New Jersey, and last summer in England and on the continent.

"I am to go to Baltimore in October, and shall give one year at least to work among the colored people in that city as an assistant in Mt. Calvary Parish."

Is Corresponding Secretary of the Missionary Society.

CHARLES ELLIOTT ST. JOHN.

(February 5.)—"I was graduated from the Divinity School in 1883, after an uneventful course. During my senior year I served as Proctor of Divinity Hall. My first experience as a preacher was before I left the school. During the vacation before my last year I was sent by the New Hampshire Unitarian Association to North Woodstock, N. H., as a missionary. I preached there three months in a vacant Baptist meeting-house with decidedly forlorn results. Unitarianism is a good thing, but when a youngster undertakes to make over in three months a community of Baptists, Adventists, and Methodists into Unitarians, he soon discovers that he is not so much of a power as he thought he was.

"In October, 1883, I received and accepted a call to become the pastor of the Second Congregational (Unitarian) Society of Northampton, Mass., and I was ordained and installed in that office November 1. Since that date the usual duties of a 'country parson' have fallen upon me. I have evolved my one sermon a week with, as yet, no unconquerable friction. During the past winter I gave a course of seven evening lectures on 'What Unitarians Believe.' I have answered a number of outside demands upon me,—such as addresses at Conferences. I gave an address on the subject, 'Which is better, the Graded or the Uniform System of Instruction in Sunday-schools?' at the Sunday-school session of the National Unitarian Conference at Saratoga, September, 1884. I took a part in the installation of Rev. J. Cuckson at Springfield in October, 1884, and recently, when Brooks of '79 was ordained at Greenfield I gave him the right-hand of fellowship.

"I have found my parish a very pleasant one. It is not large, and my audiences are not overwhelming in size, but the people receive kindly what I say to them, and have not yet asked for my resignation. I like Northampton and its people, and consider myself a well-established citizen. I joined the Independent Club here at the last election; was, in short, a mugwump."

A sermon entitled "God's Education of Man," was printed in the Christian Register of March 5, 1885.

WILLIAM SCHOFIELD.

(April 14.)—"The first Triennial left me in the Harvard Law School. I completed the course, graduating in June, 1883. I had the honor to be chosen to represent the Law School in the Commencement Exercises of that year. The subject of my essay was 'The Codification of the Common Law.' Shortly before graduating I had the good fortune to obtain the place of Private Secretary to Mr. Justice Gray. I began my duties with him in Washington in the fall of 1883, and I am with him now. I was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in June, 1884, and I intend to practise in Massachusetts."

EDWARD WESTON SHANNON.

(April 10.)—In June, 1884, went into the Heavy Hardware business (Weyer, Keefer & Co.) in Kansas City. Was married August 20, 1884, at Portland, Me., to Ella Preston. Tucker. Is a member of the Blue Lodge Masons, the Royal Arch Masons, and the Knights Templar.

WILLIAM SHEAFE.

(May 14.)—Since 1881 has been in the real estate business in Boston, in the office of William Sheafe & Edwin Sheafe. In 1884 made a trip through Cuba, Central America and Mexico. Is a member of the Somerset Club, the Puritan Club, and the Webster Society.

GEORGE RUMSEY SHELDON.

(February 3.)—Is a member of the firm of Wm. C. Sheldon & Co., bankers and brokers, 10 Wall street, New York. Has a daughter, Mary Seney Sheldon, born in Brooklyn, October 16, 1884. Is a member of the University Club, the St. Nicholas Club, the Harvard Club, the Brooklyn Club, and the Hamilton Club.

Was married November 16, 1881, not November 14, 1881, as stated in the last Report.

HENRY AUGUSTUS SHUTE.

(April 8.)—In March, 1883, was made Judge of the Exeter, (N. H.) Police Court. Since September, 1884, has been Secretary and Treasurer of the Rockingham Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company. Is a member of the Rockingham Bar Association, and of Friendship Council No. 141 of the Royal Arcanum.

Is engaged.

FRANK ERNEST SIMPSON.

(February 3.)—Has been for the last six years Treasurer of the Saxonville Mills, and the Roxbury Carpet Company; office, 7½ Beacon street, Boston. They manufacture carpets and yarns.

FREDERIC WARREN SMITH.

(May 27.)—"I have nothing to add to our previous Report. Have gone quietly along in the same business I went into when I left College,"—the Boston Soapstone Furnace Company, 11 Pemberton Square.

WILLARD EVERETT SMITH.

(June 3.)—Is practising medicine in Framingham, Mass. Is a a member of the American Medical Association, and of the Massachusetts Medical Society. Read by invitation of Dr. J. J. Putnam, before the Clinical Section of the Suffolk District Medical Society on June 9, 1885, an article upon six cases of a very rare and peculiar form of paralysis (Hereditary Ataxia) falling under his care. Only about forty similar cases have ever been recorded. Will publish it soon with photographs of cases.

SAMUEL SNELLING.

(May 18.)—Received the degree of S. T. B. from the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, in June, 1882. Was ordained June 21, 1882. Became Rector of Grace Church, Amherst, Mass., in August, 1883. Was married April 23, 1884, in Emmanuel Church, Boston, to Jane Lambert Kielblock of Charlestown, Mass., daughter of Franz and Averick Colby Kielblock. Is a member of the Clericus Club, Boston.

SAMUEL ELLSWORTH SOMERBY.

Is living in Boston. A member of several social clubs.

HAYWARD STETSON.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

MARION WAINWRIGHT STORY.

(June 12.)—Is living in New York. A member of the Knickerbocker and Calumet Clubs. Has been south all winter.

FRANCIS JOSEPH SWAYZE.

(February 3.)—"I have been practising law here (Newton, N. J.), for nearly three years, and am doing very well. In May, 1882, I was made a Director of the Newton Gas-light Company and also of the Merchants' National Bank, and still hold those positions. In February, 1884, I was made Secretary and Treasurer of the Newton Gas-light Company, and remain in that position yet.

"There is nothing of importance to chronicle during the past three years. I have taken considerable interest in politics, and, unlike most Harvard graduates whom I meet, supported Blaine last fall and took a somewhat active part in the campaign, and was accordingly exceedingly disappointed at the election of your Buffalo 'statesman.'"

JIREH SWIFT.

(March 2.)—Is still in Pernambuco, Brazil, with Henry Forster & Co., sugar and commission merchants. Is engaged.

WILLIAM HENRY SYLVESTER.

(April 7.)—"When our second report came out in 1882, I was teaching in Mr. William Nichols's Private Latin School. I stayed with him two years, and in September, 1883, I went into the English High School of Boston, as Junior Master. The Head Master of the school is Mr. F. A. Waterhouse, who was Principal of the Newton High School when I fitted for college. My department of instruction is English and History."

Was married April 3, 1883, at Newtonville, Massachusetts, to Anna Frances Gage, of Newtonville, daughter of Denison Gage, Jr., of Lynn, and Anna Brigham, of Boston.

HERBERT TAPPAN.

(May 6.)—"I have been in various positions on the British Columbia division of the Central Pacific Railroad for the last five years. About a year ago I obtained the contract for the first seven miles of grading east of Savona, B. C. This I completed in March, and am now engaged on a contract of thirty-two miles of grading and bridging along the Shuswap Lakes. Firm name, Sinclair & Tappan. My address for the next six months will be Kamloope, British Columbia. It is expected that the road will be completed next fall, when I shall probably go east. Constant address in east, Brookline, Mass. My present contract is for about two hundred thousand dollars worth of work. We employ about fifteen hundred men, of whom over a thousand are Chinese."

WILLIAM CROSWELL TARBELL.

(April 8.)—Is practising law in Boston at 10 Tremont street. Admitted to the Bar in January, 1883.

FRANK WILLIAM TAUSSIG.

(February 8.)—"I have lived in Cambridge since the date of the last Class Report. In 1882 I was appointed instructor in Political Economy in Harvard College, and devoted my time for the year 1882–3 entirely to teaching, and work of that kind. In the course of that year I published an essay on 'Protection to Young Industries as Applied in the United States,' which gave the results of investigations in the economic history of the country in the years 1789–1830. In June, 1883, I received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Harvard University.

"In the fall of 1883 I entered the Harvard Law School with the intention of taking the regular three years course, and of practising after I got through the school. At the same time I continued my connection with the college as instructor in Political Economy, having been re-appointed to that office. I gave a course on the Tariff History of the United States, a subject to which I have given special attention. During the past year (1884–5) I have continued my studies in the Law-School as a second-year student, and have also continued as instructor in the college, giving the same course as in the previous year.

"In 1884, I wrote an introductory notice to the English translation of Laveleye's 'Elements of Political Economy,' and added a supplementary chapter on some economic questions of present practical importance. In 1885 I published a second small volume on economic history, this being a 'History of the Existing Tariff.' It gives an account of the tariff legislation of the country from 1860 to 1883, with more or less comment from the point of view of one who adheres to the principle of free trade. I have written occasionally for the newspapers, on economic questions, chiefly for the Boston Herald and Advertiser, and a little for the New York Nation. I have been, and am still, a member of the committee to edit the Civil Service Record, a monthly paper published for the promotion of civil service reform, and have written regularly for it."

Is a member of the Massachusetts Reform Club, and of the Cobden Club. Since April 1 has conducted the course on American History in the college during the absence of Hart.

FREDERIC HENRY TEMPLE.

(February 10.)—"Was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in January, 1884. Opened an office for myself the following October,"—at 23 Court street, Boston. Is a member of the Massachusetts Tariff Reform League, and of one or two local political organizations.

JOHN ALDEN THAYER.

(March 28.)—"The end of the first triennium out of college found me suffering from what had come to be chronic empyema. I was, however, cherishing what, under the circumstances, were delusive hopes of speedy recovery. Finally my physician, Dr. C. H. Perry, decided that my only chance of living lay in having a surgical operation performed. In this view he was confirmed by consultation with Drs. H. J. Bowditch and H. O. Marcy of Boston. Accordingly, November 4, 1882, at Dr. Marcy's private hospital, in Cambridge, in the presence of seven physicians, the resection of my fifth and sixth ribs was performed by Dr. Marcy. The motive power of the saw was furnished by one of those machines which are associated in our minds with so much pleasure in connection with dental operations. Exhausted by so long a sickness I barely survived the operation; but after that, recovery was rapid, and in three weeks I was back at my home on the sure road to health. I have been thus particular in describing my sickness, as the operation was the first of the kind ever performed in New England, and as our fledgling Galens may be interested in it. My health grew rapidly better, but to insure against all chances, I did not undertake any work until October, 1884, when I came to Dobb's Ferry, N. Y., as private tutor. Having devoted the better part of five years to a struggle for existence, it is needless to say that I have had no leisure to spend in joining clubs, acquiring degrees (except that of in sano corpore), writing novels, squibs, or pamphlets; receiving in marriage or multiplying upon the face of the earth."

JAMES EAMES THOMAS.

(March 1.)—"My career since the publication of the last Triennial has been uneventful. I have continued as Preceptor of the Derby Academy, Hingham, Mass., although it is probable that in the near future I may turn my attention to the legal profession. I have made a few bold strokes in the literary line, corresponding for papers and writing one or two articles for the New England Journal of Education; also essays delivered before the people of the town on 'Our Tariff,' 'Foreign Policy,' 'Political Parties,' 'Richardson, the Novelist,' etc. Have also had the honor to appear in a lecture before the Agricultural Society."

WASHINGTON BUTCHER THOMAS.

(April 9.)—Is still with the Standard Sugar Refinery, Boston. Was married August 20, 1883, in Boston, to Caroline Wadleigh, daughter of Bainbridge and Anne Putnam Wadleigh, of Milford, N. H. Went abroad in August, 1883, returning in May, 1884.

JOHN JAMES THOMPSON.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

JOSEPH GILBERT THORP.

(May 26.)—"In the autumn of 1882, after leaving the Harvard Law School in June, I went into the office of Shattuck & Munroe of this city (Boston), as a student, remaining a second year with them on a salary. In October, 1884, Woodbury of '80 and I opened an office of our own, where we now are."

Admitted to the Suffolk Bar in June, 1883. Is a member of the Union Club, the Puritan Club, the Tariff Reform Association, the Cambridge Club, the Dante Club, and is a Director of the Cambridge Civil Service Reform Association.

From June to October, 1884, traveled through England, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Germany.

Is engaged.

*WILLETT LOSEE TITUS.

Born April 12, 1853, at Hamden, Delaware Co., N. Y.; died September 26, 1879, at the same place.

See Report II., pp. 101–104.

JOHN JOSEPH TOWNSEND.

(March 6.)—Is still a lawyer in the office of the Counsel to the Corporation of the City of New York.

WALTER TRIMBLE.

(May 26.)—"Since 1882 I have been practising law in New York, at 160 Broadway." Firm name, Wyatt & Trimble.

LARKIN THORNDIKE TRULL.

(May 2.)—Since October 20, 1882, has been practising law in Lowell, Mass. Was married October 8, 1884, at Lowell, to Jennie H. Bailey, daughter of Henry B. and Ann S. Bailey, of Lowell.

ALFRED STEWART TUBBS.

(February 11.)—Is still in San Francisco with Tubbs & Co. Spent four months east in the winter of 1883–4, returning home via Florida, New Orleans, and the Southern Pacific R. R.

WILLIAM GREENE TWOMBLEY.

Has not been heard from since 1882. Is abroad.

HENRY OLIVER UNDERWOOD.

(April 11.)—Since August, 1880, has been with Wm. Underwood & Co., manufacturers of Canned Goods, Boston. Is living at Belmont. Was married May 21, 1884, at Boston, to Jennie Cushing, daughter of Hayward P. Cushing. Has a daughter, Alice Cushing Underwood, born February 23, 1885, at Belmont, Mass. Is a member of the Puritan Club.

DAVID URQUHART.

(May 22.)—In September, 1883, left Dorcyville, and went into business in St. Paul, Minn. From there to Helena, Mont., April 1, 1884. April 1, 1885, entered the employ of P. Lorrillard & Co., New York, where he now is. Published a Report to the Governor of Montana on the Blackfoot Indians, in the Helena (Mont.) Herald, September 2, 1884, and the St. Paul Pioneer Press, September 8, 1884.

WILLIAM BAYARD VAN RENSSELAER.

(February 3.)—"I was admitted to the Bar in September, 1882, and am practising law by myself in Albany."

JOHN VAUGHN.

(June 4.)—Is living in Boston, and engaged in the book publishing trade.

HENRY CLARKE WARREN.

(April 8.)—"Since the last Triennial Report I have continued to belong to the Johns Hopkins University until a year ago last February. My summers were spent at home. But last May I went to England (sailed from New York, May 24, 1884. Sailed from Liverpool, July 19, 1884), partly to see my brother, who is at Oxford, and partly to see about taking up the study of Pāli, the Sacred Language of the Buddhists, with a view of perhaps sometime doing some work for the Pāli Text Society of which I have been a member since its beginning. This winter I have spent at home studying Pāli. The only thing I have published is 'A Buddhist Story,' in the Providence Daily Journal of October 27, 1884, a translation of a Buddhist Jātaka or 'Birth Story.'"

Is a member of the Pāli Text Society (England), the Royal Asiatic Society (England), the American Oriental Society, and the American Philological Association.

CHARLES LUKE WELLS.

(April 11.)—Graduated from the Cambridge Theological School in 1882. Was ordained Deacon in 1882, Priest in 1883. Became Rector of Christ Church, Gardiner, Me., in November, 1884. Is also Chaplain of the Soldiers' Home, Togus, Me.

JOHN WALTER WELLS.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

CHARLES HOOVER WHITING.

(February 5.)—"In March, 1880, I entered the book and stationery wholesale business as junior member of the firm of Hall & Whiting. In March, 1883, I bought out my partner, and now conduct the business in my own name."

Was married January 1, 1883, to Charlotte Augusta Noyes, of Boston. Has one daughter, Beatrice Fay, born December 12, 1883. Is a member of the Eastern Yacht Club, and Vice-Commodore and Treasurer of the Dorchester Yacht Club, a corporation organized under the laws of Massachusetts.

OTHO HOLLAND WILLIAMS.

(February 3.)—"I send you herewith the blank, filled up to the best of my poor ability, and much regret that I leave so many questions unanswered; but a fellow who has no business or profession, and who has steered clear of matrimony, leads a very quiet life. My time is divided between Baltimore and the Eastern Shore of Maryland, where I live for eight months of the year, and find many of the charms of a ranching life with none of the disagreeables."

Is a member of the Society of the Cincinnati, and of the Maryland Club, Baltimore.

RICHARD THOMAS WILTON.

(June 5.)—"I left Rochester, Mass., December 17, 1883, and engaged with the people of Rindge, N. H., January 20, 1884. Received a call to settle, from both church and parish, without one negative vote, the 23d of February, 1885, which I accepted May 13. On May 30 I delivered a Memorial Address to the veterans. It will be published in the Keene Sentinel next week."

Has two more children, Wilfrid Mallett Wilton, born October 2, 1882, at North Rochester, Mass., and Emma Gladys, born October 17, 1884, at Rindge, N. H.

JOHN ELIOT WOLFF.

(April 27.)—"The day after the last Class Dinner in 1882 I left the East for Montana, and remained there for nearly two years making continual explorations for coal and other minerals in the Rocky Mountains as geologist in the service of the Northern Transcontinental Survey (Northern Pacific Railroad Company). We experienced our share of the adventures and hardships incident to frontier life and work in the high mountains, but were sorry when the work ceased in 1884. In the spring of that year came over to Heidelberg, Germany, to study the microscopical investigation of rocks with a celebrated specialist at the University, and shall remain here till July next and then return to the United States."

Has published the following articles:

(1) Bulletin Mus. Comp. Zoöl. No. VII. "The Great Dike at Hough's Neck, Quincy, Mass." 1882.

(2) Neues Jahrbuch für Mineralogie, etc., 1885. "Nephelingesteine in der Vereinigten Staaten."

(3) North Transc. Survey, R. Pumpelly, Director. "Notes on the Petrography of the Crazy Mountains, and other Localities in Montana Territory." 1885.

STEPHEN BLAKE WOOD.

(June 5.)—"I have been practising law in Boston about three years. A year ago I had an opportunity, coming directly from a suit in which I was engaged, to take an interest in a quarrying enterprise, without being obliged to devote much of my time to it. I became a member of a firm known as the Keene Granite Co. (quarries in Marlboro', N. H.). We had immense success, and I am free to say that this year I look to the law for fame and glory, but to granite for money. However, I am much more sure of the latter than of the former."

Is engaged.

JAMES ANDERSON WRIGHT.

(April 16.)—Is a member of the firm of Peter Wright & Sons, shipping and commission merchants and steamship agents, New York. Became a member of the firm January 1, 1883. Was formerly in the Philadelphia office.

Is a member of the Philadelphia and Social Art Clubs, Philadelphia, and of the Harvard, University and Racquet Clubs, New York.

"I have made but one trip abroad during the last three years, and it was wholly on business. I sailed from New York February 18, 1885, and arrived here April 9, spending most of my time in England, and about a week in Germany and Belgium. I have been keeping house with four other men for the last year, and hope to continue the same arrangement. I have taken few vacations from business, and the three years have been very uneventful."

[Received too late for insertion in their proper place.]

ALBERT CLINTON ALDRICH.

(June 16.)—"Am now at Attleboro', Mass., having left St. Johnsbury three days ago. I think I have a better opportunity here, as it is near Boston and Providence, of which cities I have been a resident."

EDWARD HERBERT ATHERTON.

Writes from Paris, May 23, as follows:—

"The last Report left me teaching at Needham, Mass., where I had been one year, and where I remained two years longer.

"In the summer of 1884 I decided, in company with another '79 man, to make a short trip to Europe, as well for rest of brain as to gain some idea of the Old World. Sailing from New York the 5th of July, we landed at Glasgow the 17th, and took a run through Scotland, England, across France to Switzerland, then down the Rhine, and through Belgium. I had decided, while in Paris, to make it my home for the next year, and soon found myself settled here. I have passed my time mostly in study; but at the same time have tried to fathom some of the mysteries of this great city; and I trust I have not been here in vain.

CLASS BABY.

CHARLES PIKE ANTHONY.

(April 9.)—"I am still the class baby, I suppose, though I am four years and a half old and wear pants. I am three feet ten inches tall, and weigh fifty-two pounds. If you have any one of my age to beat this I should like to see him. I have read seventy pages of Barnes' primer and can count pretty well. I like to have '79 men come to see me. Perhaps I will come to see you Commencement Day."

TEMPORARY MEMBERS.

[The Record of Temporary Members is incomplete. All are included who have subscribed to our Class Fund, whether they have been heard from or not. As to the rest, each has been asked twice to report himself, and the answers received are printed here. This Report will be sent only to those who have taken the trouble to contribute to it, or to the Class Fund.]

FRANCIS WILLIS ADAMS.

Is practising law in Boston. Office in the Herald Building.

JOHN STEWART ALLEY.

Is still in the leather business, in Boston, with the firm of John B. Alley & Co. Was married July 6, 1882, to Mattie Sophia Botume of Stoneham, Mass.

ROLLIN CARROLL BALDWIN.*

Born September 2, 1857, at Vershire, Vermont; died April 15, 1878, at Somerville, Mass.

See Report I., pp. 74–75.

HERBERT PORTER BISSELL.

(May 14.)—"During the past three years I have led a quiet, plodding life. I was admitted to the Bar in April, 1883, and remained with the firm of Greene, McMillan & Gluck,—railroad attorneys,—as managing clerk, until January 1, 1885, when I opened an office for myself.

"I was married at Brooklyn, October 30, 1883, to Lucy Agnes Coffey, and my wedding journey included a trip to 'Harvard and its Surroundings.' Since that time I have lived in Buffalo, and have become the father of a daughter,—Mary Rose Bissell,—who was born October 31, 1884.

"For some time I have taken an active interest in politics. I attended the Democratic Convention held at Chicago last July, and did all that I could to secure the nomination of Grover Cleveland. In the campaign which followed I made several speeches in German. I am now Secretary of the Erie County Democratic Committee, and President of 'The Cleveland Democracy of Buffalo,'— the Young Men's Democratic Club of this city. This club is organized for practical work, but it has an educational feature (consisting of the preparation and reading of papers upon political subjects) which is new to political organizations, and which has proved very successful."

BENJAMIN SEAVER BLANCHARD.

(February 5.)—"I haven't anything of any particular interest to tell you about myself, for my life has been rather an uneventful one since our last Report. I practised in Roxbury for a year in rather a hard neighborhood, and had a fair amount of work; little pecuniary recompense, but plenty of blessings, some curses, and good opportunities to study human nature. Then I went to the Beach for the summer, and had a good practice. In the fall of 1883 I settled in Brookline, where I now am. Last summer I spent again at the Beach. This is what I have been doing, and I am now slowly climbing the ladder of fame."

Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, Medical Examiner for two insurance companies, a member of the Puritan Club of Boston, and Vice-President of the Eccentric Club. Has written a few short articles for Medical journals and for the press.

CLIFFORD BRIGHAM.

(April 18.)—"After taking a two years' course at the Harvard Law School, I entered a law office in Boston, where I remained as a student until admitted to the Bar in January, 1884. Since then I have had an office at 5 Tremont street, Boston, where I am practising at the present time, although still living at Salem, Mass.

"No other doings of mine have been of any general interest, excepting, perhaps, that I acted as one of the Executive Committee of the Salem Independent and Republican Club, a 'mugwump' organization of the late political campaign ; and that I was a defeated candidate for the Common Council of Salem at the last municipal election."

NAT MAYNARD BRIGHAM.

(May 27.)—"I was elected a member of the Puritan Club of Boston in 1884. Took an inconspicuous part in the campaign of 1884, speaking three times for the 'Independents'—once in Boston, twice in Waltham—delivered memorial address at Natick May 30, before Post 63, G. A. R.

"I go to Portland, Oregon, July 2, to locate."

Was given a complimentary concert May 8, 1885, in Tremont Temple, Boston ; the University Glee Club, the Lotus Glee Club, the Philomela Ladies' Quartette, Mr. C. N. Allen, violinist, and others, volunteering their assistance and services.

JOHN AUGUSTUS BROWN.

(February 26.)—"My life for the last three years has been passed quietly, and is therefore without any striking incidents. I have lived the whole time in Exeter, engaged in private tutoring, and have been very successful, both financially and otherwise. For the space of two months from April 25, 1883, until the end of the term, I substituted for Prof. Wentworth, in Phillips Exeter Academy. I had charge of the classes in Higher Algebra, Solid Geometry and Trigonometry, and enjoyed my short stay there immensely. Prof. Wentworth was so busy in preparing for the Academy Centennial which was held in June, 1883, that he turned over his classes to Atwood (Harvard '80) and myself. I have had pupils during each of the last three summers, so have not had much of any vacation myself. I shall probably stay in Exeter as long as I can do well tutoring."

In March, 1885, was chosen a member of the Board of Trustees of the Exeter Public Library.

HENRY WILLIS BRYANT.

(May 27.)—Is Secretary and Junior Proprietor of H. B. Bryant's (Bryant & Stratton) Chicago Business College, Short Hand Institute, and English Training School. Is a member of the Calumet Club.

GEORGE MINOT BUTLER.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

FREDERICK EMERSON CHANDLER.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

JAMES FRANCIS CONLAN.*

Born December 1, 1857, at Cambridge, Mass. Died July 4, 1883, at Cambridge, of acute miliary tuberculosis.

He left college in his senior year intending to be away for one year only. Circumstances caused him to change his plans, and in September, 1881, he entered the Harvard Medical School. His plan was to pursue the studies of the Senior year at Harvard, in addition to his work at the Medical School, and take the degrees of A. M. and M. D., in 1884.

He was just about to complete his second year at the School, when one day (June 11, 1883), he was seized with a sudden hemorrhage from the lungs, on his way home from a friend's house. "The following day he had four, which prostrated him; but so great was his ambition he still kept at his books, preparing for the annual examinations, which were to come off the following week; until compelled by loss of strength from the fatal disease to give them up. His disposition was amiable and loving, and his cheerful expression can never be forgotten."

GEORGE CHALMERS CUTLER.

(June 11.)—"For the last three years I have been engaged in the Wholesale Lumber business (Cutler & Co., Bangor, Me.), having mills for the manufacture of Eastern timber at various points in our State."

PICKERING DODGE.

February 5, 1884, entered the firm of O. R. Williams & Co., dealers in coal and Pennsylvania coke, Washington, D. C.

Writes (February 5):—"I left Virginia in October, 1883, and came to Washington, where I was quite ill that winter, but braced up and went into my present business just a year ago. We are doing very well."

Is a member of the Washington Cause Club, and of the Harvard Club of Washington, D. C.

CHARLES DRIVER.

Is at Leadville, Col., as Purchasing Agent for the Arkansas Valley Smelting Co. Was married November 12, 1884, at Boston, Mass., to Alice Plummer Dole, daughter of Samuel and Mary A. Dole, of Boston.

GEORGE HOWARD EARLE.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

ALFRED ELA.

(April 10.)—Since July 5, 1883, has been in the insurance business, at 27 Congress street, Boston.

HENRY BANKS FRENCH.

Is still with French, Richards & Co., wholesale druggists, Philadelphia, having been admitted to the firm in 1885. Was married October 30, 1883, to Augusta Anna Graham of Philadelphia. Has one child, Clayton French, Jr., born September 9, 1884. Is a member of the Schuylkill Athletic Club, and the American Anti-Vivisection Society, in addition to the clubs mentioned in Report II.

JOSEPH THOMAS GILBERT.

(February 17.)—Is Secretary and Treasurer of the Dunn County Pressed Brick Co., Menominee, Wis. Spent the summer of 1882 in Colorado. In the winter of 1884–5 made a four months' trip west as far as California.

HERBERT EVELETH GREENE.

See Reports of Class of 1881.

CHARLES MERTON HALEY.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

CHARLES EDMUND HAYES.

(May 17.)—Since April, 1884, has been ranching at Gallinas Springs, New Mexico.

HAROLD GOULD HENDERSON.

Graduated from the Columbia Law School in 1883. Is practising law in New York, in the office of Davies, Cole & Rapallo, 32 Nassau street; writes as follows:—

(April 7.)—"The law varies but slightly when one describes his life in it, though the student finds infinite variety. All day in an office and three evenings—generally four or five—each week given to work in the law, leaves little opportunity for other work or enjoyment. During the college year a number of students in the Columbia Law School have been going over the work in detail with me as quiz-master, whereby I have gained knowledge and pleasure; for there is no way so thorough to learn a subject as to teach others. During the autumn and winter I used my few unoccupied hours in giving lessons in elocution, the pleasure of doing the work and the success of the pupils being the only reward I would accept. But even this took more attention than the jealousy of the law would permit, and, with much reluctance, I gave up any systematic work that was not connected with the profession I have entered.

"The shrine of my household gods will not be changed from Washington Square, for all that I know; though it is impossible to be sure of one's movements from year to year."

Is a member of the Harvard Club, St. Anthony Club, Fencers' Club, Bar Association and various mugwump and reform associations.

Born November 28, 1857, at Forreston, Ogle County, Ill.; died February 27, 1879, at Cannon City, Col.

See Report II., p. 119.

GUSTAVUS ARTHUR HILTON.

Is practising law in Boston, 85 Devonshire street. Admitted to the Suffolk Bar June 22, 1882. Is a member of the Puritan Club.

MAHLON HUTCHINSON.

PETER KATZENBACH.*

Born June 13, 1856, at Trenton, N. J.; died in August, 1880, at San Francisco, Cal.

See Report II., p. 121.

FRANCIS BOWLER KEENE.

(May 31.)—"In February, 1883, an agency of the Ohio Central Railroad and Coal Company of Toledo was opened here (Milwaukee), and I was placed in charge to establish a wholesale and retail coal business, selling chiefly the soft coal from the Ohio Central mines. On May 1, 1884, the title of the firm was changed to W. C. Wyman & Co. I have continued in charge as manager up to the present time. Milwaukee has become a very important coal distributing point, and though our business has suffered from over-production and excessively low prices, we enjoy the pleasures of hope.

"In August, 1884, I fell twelve feet at my dock and broke my left wrist, just back of the head of the radius, and suffered numerous sprains and bruises besides. I was fortunate to escape with my life.

"The only important journey I have taken was begun on March 17 of this year. I went to Cincinnati, Richmond, Old Point Comfort, Washington, New York, Providence and Boston, reaching home on April 20. I had not been to Cambridge since August, 1880, and took great pleasure in again seeing familiar places and faces. I have done little in athletics since graduation, excepting a long handicap race with the almighty dollar."

Is a member of the Milwaukee Club, the Arion Musical Club, and the Harvard Club of Chicago.

GEORGE ALBERT KITFIELD.

Is in business in Boston, as book-keeper to Leach, Annable & Co., manufacturers and dealers in English and Gothic styles of furniture. Was married November 29, 1882, at Manchester, Mass., to Hattie Butler Carter, daughter of Capt. John Carter. Is living at Manchester-by-the-Sea. Is President of the Zig-Zag Club (literary).

JOHN FRANKLIN LADD.

(May 13.)—Is still in the McLean Asylum, Somerville, Mass. Is considered hopelessly insane.

SAMUEL KLEIGHTON LEWIS.

(May 1.)—"Nothing unusual has happened during the last three years. During the first year I resided at Kansas City, where I practised law with Messrs. Bryant, Holmes & Powell; then moved to this city (Las Vegas, N. M.), and soon became engaged in business with my brothers.

"During the month of March, 1884, I was admitted as a member of the Las Vegas Bar, since which time I have been engaged in active practice. I have recently been appointed to the office of 'Prosecuting Attorney' for the county of San Miguel, and also have been associated in partnership with Major M. A. Breeden of Santa Fé, N. M., now District Attorney for the First Judicial District of New Mexico.

"During the last year I have held and still hold the office of President of the Montefiore Social Club, and also Secretary of the Montefiore Congregation, both of this city."

LEOPOLD LOBSITZ.*

Born October 1, 1858, in New York City; died February 17, 1879, in Boston, Mass.

See Report I., pp. 80-81.

JONAS MICHAEL MILES.

(February 4.)—"Was studying law in the office of Turner & Scaife, 23 Court street, Boston, from November 7, 1879, to June 22, 1882, when I was admitted to the Bar. Since then have been connected with Turner & Scaife."

Was married January 16, 1883, at Brookline, Mass., to Lizzie Baxter James. Has one son, Herbert James Miles, born at Brookline, October 22, 1883.

GEORGE STOW MILLER.

(May 18.)—"After leaving college I spent a year in the Institute of Technology, and from there became connected with a Boston Chemical Manufacturing concern. After severing my connection with them, I was for a short time employed by the University Press in Cambridge, and from there went to Joliet, Ill., to take a position in the laboratory of the Joliet Steel Works. From there I came to Wheeling, W. Va., to take charge of the laboratory of the Riverside Iron Works, where I am now located. The works are very prettily located on the banks of the Ohio, opposite Bellaire, and are remarkable chiefly for one fact—that they were the first works to make a specialty of mild steel, a product primarily intended to take the place of iron in the manufacture of nails, but which has proved itself to be superior to iron for all purposes for which the latter has been used."

Is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

JOHN SINGLETON MITCHELL.

(May 29.)—"Since leaving the Medical School I have been in practice in Boston, and have had a fair share of success. Being somewhat worn out physically by close attention to business, I concluded to take a rest from the cares and worriment incident to such attention, and therefore shipped as surgeon of the barque 'Sarah,' 538 tons, of which Capt. L. R. Hale is master, and bound to the Western or Açores islands.

"We left Boston on the morning of September 12, 1884, and after a voyage of thirteen days reached our first port on the Island of Flores. The voyage had been a very pleasant one, and was unaccompanied by any severe storms, and with the exception of the death and burial at sea of a steerage passenger, nothing occurred to mar the enjoyment of the passengers. For the outward voyage I had ninety-one passengers under my care, and for the homeward voyage eighty-four; the larger part of them were subjects of Portugal, and there were very few Americans.

"We left Fayal October 3 for Terçeia, which port we reached October 7. Although ready to leave two days later, we were compelled to wait till the 19th before we set sail for San Miguel, at which island we arrived on the morning of the 21st. Having discharged our cargo and taken in ballast, we started on our homeward voyage on the afternoon of the 25th, and arrived at Fayal the next day, making the run of 200 miles in less than twenty-two hours. At Fayal we remained till Wednesday, October 29, and awaited the arrival of the mail from Lisbon. One great disadvantage at the Açores is that the mail comes but twice a month from Europe.

"During the homeward voyage we had quite a number of heavy gales lasting many hours. At length, after a run of twenty-five days we sighted Cape Cod on the afternoon of November 23, and at 3.30 signaled our ship's name ashore, and, in half an hour after, our arrival was known in Boston. At 5 o'clock we were abreast of Race Point light; two hours later we were opposite Minot's light, and at 8.30 we were at anchor inside of Boston light."

EDWARD LELAND MORSE.

(February 9.)—"I began here (South Chicago, Ill.) in the Rolling Mill; later I got into the Public Schools—a place which I have held ever since."

Is a member of the Harvard Club, of Chicago.

GEORGE OSGOOD.

(April 8.)—"I have kept quietly living on here in Kensington, N. H., pursuing the usual labor of a farmer on a small New England farm. My health is good, and I find life very pleasant, though rather quiet."

CHARLES LAWRENCE PERKINS.

(April 13.)—Since January 1, 1879, has been in the firm of Geo. A. Evans, 74 Wall street, New York, dealer in steel rails and railroad supplies, and agent of the Bethlehem Iron Co. Is Governor in the Racquet Club, and member of the Union Club, Harvard Club, and Geographical Society. Made a trip to the Bermudas in March, 1885.

Was married January 18, 1882, not January 17, as stated in the last Report.

CHARLES HIRAM PEW.*

Born December 8, 1856, at Gloucester, Mass.; died June 25, 1880, at the same place.

See Report II., p. 126.

WILLIAM CARROLL PRICE.

(March 10.)—"After leaving college I led an idle life until the fall of 1879, when I entered the office of George M. Dallas, Esq., of Philadelphia, as a law student. Was admitted to the Philadelphia Bar in June, 1881, and sailed for Europe in November of the same year per steamship 'Algeria' of the Cunard line. Traveled through England, Belgium, Germany, a small part of Austria, Italy, France, Switzerland, Scotland and Ireland; returning to this country the first of September, 1882. In October of the same year I began the practice of law in Wilkesbarre, Pa., in the office of B. F. Dorrance, Esq., and was shortly afterwards taken into partnership by Mr. Dorrance.

"My partner's eyes failing him, he was compelled to give up the practice of the profession, and since April, 1884, I have been struggling along alone.

Is First Lieutenant of Company D, Ninth Regiment National Guard of Pennsylvania. Was President of the Young Men's Republican Club, yclept "The Plumed Knights," of Wilkesbarre, during last presidential campaign.

FREDERICK HASTINGS RINDGE.

(February 19.)—"Since leaving college I have devoted my time to restoring my health, and am able to report an encouraging outlook for the future."

Has made various journeys in the United States, and a winter journey to the Hawaiian Islands in 1883–4. Returned in March, 1884; spent April and May in San Diego, Los Angeles and Santa Barbara, and in June went to San Francisco. Has since then been in the West, at present in Cloverdale, Cal.

Is a member of the New England Historical Genealogical Society.

JULIAN WAINWRIGHT ROBBINS.

Is in the firm of Le Gendre & Robbins, Real Estate Brokers, 150 Broadway, New York. Went abroad in the summer of 1884. Is a member of the Governing Committee of the Calumet Club.

WILLIAM STANTON ROGERS.

Is practising law in Boston, at 5 Pemberton Square.

LEICESTER SARGENT.*

Leicester Sargent, son of George Henry and Sarah (Shaw) Sargent, was born in New York City March 31, 1858. He was lost with his only brother, Rupert Sargent (Harvard '84), by the wrecking of the yacht "Mystery," near the island of Cuttyhunk, Massachusetts, August 12, 1883, while en route to Nantucket from New Haven.

On his father's side Sargent was ninth in descent from William Sargent, who came to this country from England in 1638, and settled in the Massachusetts Bay Colony, of which he was made a Freeman the same year. He was a lay preacher, and is mentioned by Johnson in his "Wonder Working Providence" as a "Godly Christian." The branch of the Sargent family from which Leicester was descended, moved early to Leicester, Worcester County, Massachusetts, which has been the home of his family ever since, and from the town he received his name. His father entered college with the Class of 1853, but left before graduation and entered the Law School. Since 1853 he has lived in New York City, and is senior member of the firm of Sargent & Co., Hardware Manufacturers.

Leicester's mother was a Shaw, of Nantucket, a daughter of Hon. John H. Shaw, a whaling merchant, and a ship-owner. He was a member of the Massachusetts Senate, and delegate to the Buffalo Free Soil Convention (1848) which nominated Van Buren and Adams, and for many years was a prominent man in his town. Leicester attended school at the Charlier Institute in New York City, and went thence to the school of Joshua Kendall (H. C. 1853) in Cambridgeport, where he fitted for college, entering in June, 1875. During our Freshman year he suffered severely from asthma, and being unable to recover the ground lost from this cause he was dropped at the end of the year. Depressed by this misfortune he lost his interest in his college course and left Cambridge about the middle of our Sophomore year to go into business in his father's factory in New Haven. Owing to his short connection with our class few probably will remember him well, excepting those who were brought closely in contact with him, and these will never forget him. His kindly and affectionate disposition, straightforward character and high-spirited, manly bearing, made his friendship a thing to be prized, while his nervous energy, keen insight and clear business head gave promise of a brilliant career in his chosen pursuit. This promise he was fulfilling when death came upon him.

After leaving college he had gone through different departments of his father's store and factory, and having thus thoroughly mastered the business was made Assistant Superintendent at the factory, and had a partnership interest from March, 1879. On April 11, 1882, he was married in St. Thomas Church, New York, to Cora Nelson Glenn, of Cincinnati, daughter of James Miller and Elizabeth Franklin Glenn.

The sad circumstances of his death are fresh in the memories of us all. He had started from New Haven with his brother and two friends, on a yachting cruise to Nantucket, where he usually spent his summer vacations. They anchored the second night out, below Newport, and in the morning started on across Vineyard Sound, and were never seen alive again. The sunken wreck of the yacht was found a short time after near the island of Cuttyhunk. It is probable a sudden flaw of wind struck her, and she sunk after filling.

The sad and early death of Leicester Sargent takes away one of our classmates who would doubtless have been a great honor to our class. In his short life he had proved himself to be a man in the highest sense of the word, and was rapidly making his mark in his profession. Strong and self-reliant, he was eminently fitted to do well his part in life's battle, while his generous, affectionate and refined nature endeared him to his many friends. E. C. F.

EDWARD ALLEN SAWYER.

JOHN CORNELIUS SHEA.

(April 11.)—"I resigned my professorship in Wheeling, W. Va., on the 30th of May, 1883, and came to Washington, D. C., where I began the practice of my profession—law. I was admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in June, 1883, and on the 13th of November, 1883, I became a member of the Bar of the Supreme Court of the United States. My practice has been steadily increasing. I intend to obtain a thorough knowledge of law and practice in the United States Courts; then I intend to move into a State and settle down. I am now studying for the degree of LL.M. in the Boston University, and upon obtaining it shall then study for the degree of D. C. L. I have been studying constantly since I left college, and have delivered several lectures at Teachers' Institutes on Educational Topics. I was married at St. Clairsville, Belmont County, Ohio, on March 8, 1877, to Miss Jennie Wolf of West Wheeling, Belmont County, Ohio. I have three children—two boys and a girl. The eldest, John C. Shea, Jr., was born at West Wheeling, Ohio, on January 1, 1878. The next, Christian J. I. Shea, was born at the same place December 4, 1881. My little girl was born in Washington, D. C., January 31, 1884. Her name is Margaret Parthenia Shea."

EDWIN DAY SIBLEY.

FRANCIS HATHAWAY STONE.

(April 7.)—"In November, 1883, I was given command of the barque 'J. Bourne,' and on July 19, 1884, had the misfortune to discover a reef in the China Sea, and knock her bottom out on it. Vessel and cargo a total loss. Succeeded in landing all hands safely at Manila, in the boats. Arrived at home (New Bedford, Mass.) in November, 1884, and have been here since. Am at present waiting the completion of a new ship now building at Bath, Me., and expect to get to sea again in September. I hope to be spared the discovery of any more new reefs."

GEORGE WILKINSON STORM.

Is with the Edward Storm Spring Co. (limited), formerly the Whitney Spring Co. (limited), of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Has been in the business six years, and for four years a stockholder and Treasurer of the company. Writes (February 19):—"I am devoting my entire time to my business, which, I am glad to say, is not only a pleasant one, but also a profitable one to me."

Was married October 30, 1879, in New York City, to Isabel Towle Abeel. Has a daughter, Mary Brevoort Storm, born January 14, 1881, at Poughkeepsie.

SILAS MERRICK WHITCOMB.

Is at Tarpon Springs, Hillsborough County, Florida, as Agent for the Sale and Improvement of Lands, and Orange-Grower. Writes (February 10):

"I returned from Europe in the summer of 1883, and finding myself still disinclined to settle down into a humdrum sort of existence, and become a doctor, lawyer, or whatever the buttons might indicate, I yielded to the prospective charms of a Florida Orange Grove, and came to this extremity of the 'Sunny South.' Nor have I had reason to regret my choice. While you are shivering before your grate, we are enjoying the sweet odor of new-opened orange-blossoms. In fact, I am so well satisfied that I can with clear conscience advise all lovers of eternal springtime to visit me."

Is an "Honorary,—but at the Kneipe very close,—member of the 'Libertas' Burschenschaft at the University of Gratz, Styria."

* It will be seen that this statement does not balance, the receipts being two dollars in excess of the expenses. The error is in the receipts somewhere prior to 1882. I have not time to locate it, and, the error being so small, have decided to let the statement go as it is rather than omit it entirely.
